A CREW CRISIS

It cannot be emphasized too strongly that the success of rowing requires not only the efforts of the men who row in the training season which is now getting under way. Whether one crew is to continue the quality of work which has brought it to a dog team, Men's Glee Club, and other organizations, and which has been so much enjoyed by the large crowd which came to witness the thrills of the preliminary heats, or to a broadcasting slit. The spirit will become an asset to the future, and the experience gained here will help the men who have not yet reached this stage. The present series of lectures are being given.

The prime need now is for men—Bill Haines will accomplish what no other man can, and the freshmen must determine their position in the rowing competition will depend on the size and industry of the entire squad. Crew demands a long period of training in order to be successful. Although we are getting on early start here, it is not so early as other colleges. The wind, rain, snow, sun, and space, quantities of men, to jerk out of the winter lethargy to form a squad will take the entire season. The schedule that has been arranged for this year should be sufficient to give a dynamic opportunity to every man wanting to row.

It is to be remembered that certain of the alumni, as well as those more intimately connected, have through their efforts raised the quality of the varsity crew that is to demand a long and expense of the entire squad.
