BEARING in a sort of self-satisfied conscious cuteness, lethargic and phlegmatic, is the idea (or should I say the ma-Jority) of the classes of 1927 and 1928 standing by and allowing the present administration to accumulate power. This is a deplorably unprecedented situation. Since memory runs two classes have exhibited such an utter lack of spirit, such a desire of activity and an accompanying, unassuming, self-satisfaction. This is direct, specific, and unequivocal. Lucifer in biology. A sad state of affairs if they have simply become lost in the black, dumb, darkness of the vortex. They have become swallowed in the mire of failure.

Some Comments Upon the Classes of 1927 and 1928

To the Editor of THE TECH:

May I express my appreciation of all the members of the senior class.

To Arms, ye Committee

The Editor of THE TECH

To the page of THE TECH—

Friday, February 6, 1925