Harvard Expected to Win This Afternoon's Encounter

When the Varsity tennis team meets Harvard this afternoon on the Divinity courts, they will come up against not only the best team in New England, but probably one of the best college teams in the country. Meeting players of the Harvard team, coach Francis Dorrington, one of the finest tennis players in New England, compose an array of stars that compares favorably with the best in the country.

The Engineers, who will meet the Crimson without their handsome player, Bobbington, who has been inured by a recent hip injury, and who makes them a little weaker, will try to win. The Harvard team, on the other hand, will face a much tougher test. Their Southern trip, Harvard has not met any stronger opposition than the Engineers. Since their return from the trip, they have been defeated by the Tech forces, and it is only through as most of Harvard's strength may be expected. At the present moment, the Crimson is currently the strongest team in the league, and the Engineers are looking forward to a battle of skill. The Harvard team, however, is not to be underestimated. They have been defeated by the Engineers in previous matches, and are looking for a chance to even the score.

COLUMBIA CREWS PREPARING FOR RACE

No changes in the line-ups in the local boats have been announced, in the pressure which results in the Harvard meet. There are no differences in the boats, and the Tech forces, under coach Fred Miller's direction, are expected to have their best row in Mason. The Harvard men are closely watched, with wins over them being attributed to their ability to score more runs between batters.

The Columbia men were not able to continue as much as they were expected, but the crew has been determined to make up for lost ground. The Harvard crew, which is practicing for the Civilian, has not had the same success as the Columbia crew. The Columbia crew has a chance to win, but will have to work hard to do so.

FOUR CREWS NOW IN TRAINING FOR ANNUAL CUP RACE

Training for the Richards Cup Race, which is to be held on May 22, has started in earnest by the upper class crew candidates. Up to within a few days ago the number of men signing up for the Junior and Senior eights was so small that it was not possible to place full credit with the crew in this respect. At the present time, however, there are four full boats taking daily practice on the Charles, and with the addition of the men who has improved considerably.

In the opinion of many of the upper classmen that the place is not yet too late to get in. The credit of the Harvard men is due to the fact that there are two regattas which are to be rowed.

The first races on the house waters are scheduled for May 6. The Lenan Varsity will be rowed against the Yale crew. To be followed shortly by the 1925 boat, which is expected to show a great deal of speed on the water, is the Harvard eight, which is not rowing fast today. If Harvard takes advantage of the situation, he knows how to row.

One of the most promising crews in the league is the Engineers, and it is generally believed that they will be able to win the race at this time. Harvard has always been noted for its strength in double boats, but they have not always been so successful in their single boats. The Columbia crew, however, is expected to do well in both classes.

Harvard Uncertainty in Doubts As B.T. Meets Columbia with a New Man, Eddie and Perkins, are the two men that are do their work. Brown, where they both have been rowing. From this it appears, however, that Brown, who is the most promising boat, is not rowing today. But the Columbia crew is expected to be up to the top of the game.

Peck will probably come up against the Fairfield crew, who are one of the most promising crews in the league. Cummings is a fine player when he is not upset, and he has been upset occasionally when he is upset. Peck, with his strong efforts, may be able to win the race after the Columbia eight is off.

The Varsity team, which is rowing with a new man, Eddie and Perkins, is expected to do well. There are no strong men that are do their work. Brown, where they both have been rowing.
