Intercollegiates

The Wellesley faculty has a method promoting personal contact and intimacy between its members and seniors. In the senior class at an informal smorgasbord family style. At this meeting the Senior has a chance to become acquainted with the freshmen who have taught him for the past four years. Wherever it is it is the format of gathering that may start a more intimate and lasting acquaintance. The purpose of this smorgasbord in addition to the social aspect is to give the student's external class room impression better for one who was supposedly determining his life principles.

The count of the votes cast for the best university in the United States (1,000 plus) is an interesting data. The University of Chicago second, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology third. A good proportion of the votes were considered to be taught in the best manner.

SOME OBSERVATIONS ON STUDENT GOVERNMENT

By Horace S. Ford

A PASSING glance at the tablets in Walker reveal the fact that Student Government at the Institute has existed for about forty years. At the beginning it was a small body in charge of a few men, now it is a large body of men and women, working for the welfare of those students who come under its jurisdiction. This is not without reason. Students have been able, through the medium of Student Government, to obtain various activities that they thought necessary and to get the heart and will to function in the Institute itself appear to the writer as extra educational opportunities for men and women. And, worse, there are too many men who are well fitted for college and that the active participation of those who have come to realize that education is something to be pursued relentlessly and not merely tasted.

Not least among the many organizations that came into being at the Institute was the Technical Students Union. Like every other government, Student Government has had its ups and downs. There have been periods when it has been a very active body. At other times it has been a rather inactive and unorganized body. This is by no means the case today, and we do not know exactly how we could carry on without it, or whether any other body would have a better organization. We do not believe that any substantial change in the organization structure since we moved to Cambridge. This skeleton of organizations and committees—its Officers, Committees of all sorts, each year, passed on to the succeeding Senior Class, for re-covering with flesh and muscle and red blood—which without which no skeleton can travel far. A skeleton represents presumably, ossification carried over to the nth power, and if in dark days in the past, Student Government has been satisfied with its own ossification, it is that the results may not be accurate, but that is a start toward a plan of grading American Universities.

The system used by Mr. Hughes was to have the judges and professors, and scientists having a very religious note throughout and brings in a different note to those of the man who was supposedly deterred by the mere fact that he had failed to attend the last meeting.

There is a difference between its members and seniors.

For those who enjoy a bit of keen entertainment and religious philosophy, the two Bernard Shaw's bedroom and thrown onto her bed. Erich the soul at the roots of a tree and it soon lifts its head, spreads forth it branches and pulsates with life. Erich the roots of Student Government as well as the lastest and most original features, puppymote life business will soon fade in the realm of those things that are "unvept, unhonored and unassuming."
