THE TECH

THE OPEN FORUM

To the Editor:

There seems to be definite evidence to show that the conditions surrounding examinations at the end of our term are quite important. In order to determine these conditions, notably by removing defects in the examinations, a conference was held last week, with the object of establishing a plan of examinations which will have the greatest possible effect upon the student. The conference was attended by representatives of several departments, and it was decided to recommend the following plan to the faculty:

1. Examinations should be held in the first week in May, immediately after the spring break.
2. The examination should consist of a written test and an oral test. The written test should cover the entire course, while the oral test should consist of a series of questions on selected topics.
3. The examinations should be administered by instructors who have been designated by the department heads.
4. The results of the examinations should be announced as soon as possible, in order to give students an opportunity to prepare for the next term.

We believe that this plan will prove to be a great improvement in the examination procedures of the College, and we urge its adoption by the faculty.

As We Like It

COLEY

A man whose former sweetheart conpired suicide on his wedding day and left him with the onset of a nervous condition. His bride Bandit his intention, and, as bandit, he makes a speech to his friends. The article below is a part of a broader investigation of the social and economic factors that contribute to the high rates of suicide among men.

We will continue this investigation in a future issue of the Tech.

To the Editor:

We are writing to express our concern about the current state of the academic community. Despite the numerous protests and demonstrations that have taken place, the situation has not improved. We believe that the faculty and administration must take immediate action to address the root causes of this crisis.

We urge the faculty to consider the following measures:

1. Implement a system of transparent and fair evaluation of faculty and student performance.
2. Establish a committee to review the adequacy of resources and funding for the department.
3. Reduce the workload for students and faculty to alleviate burnout and stress.

We believe that these measures are necessary to ensure the long-term success of our academic community.

ST. JAMES

The Boston Stock Company kids from Harvard's pre-election tradition of 'The Shop' continues to thrive. The company will be performing this week in The Shop, with a capacity to seat 500 people at any given time.

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my concern about the recent developments in the field of physics. As you know, the discovery of the Higgs boson has generated a great deal of excitement in the scientific community. However, I believe that the media has overemphasized the significance of this discovery.

In my opinion, the discovery of the Higgs boson is important, but it is not as significant as has been suggested. The implications of this discovery are still being studied, and it is too early to make definitive conclusions.

Young Men's Clothes of College Cut

THERE is a certain sarorial education observed in our greater dressage of the men. It is also true as regards Brussels and Grenoble, and the forenoon.

These places form the center of the establishment of Scott's young gentleman's store. It is established in the neighborhood of college standards.

Then a college youth's fashion is every young man's fashion—the fashions you will find in Scott's and Scott's.
