FENCERS LOSE COACH
— GOES TO HARVARD

After many years coaching the Engineers’ swordsmen, Coach Davenport has transferred his allegiance to Harvard, where he will continue the work he carried on so successfully at the Institute. Several changes have been made in the franchise to which he was attached with the help of Coach J. F. W. A. S. A. felt it was able to pay.

At Harvard, he will be in charge of the men’s team, giving his services six weeks a year to grooming Crimson sabre wielders. If there is enough spirit about the institution to warrant it, a sabre team will be started here, in order to screen Harvard laurels that are obtainable. It is possible that a large number of men will have to come out for the sport and put in many hours of hard practice.

Manager Wilson of the fencing unit, after inspecting the depth of the Navy, feels that his men are not ready for practice. Larger numbers and putting a great deal more pep into military practices is required. Shorthorn of the fencing unit has been trying to make friends with the fellows of the fencing unit. It is hoped that he will soon ‘pass’ and set the process going over so slowly.

The fencing team is up to full strength. The regulars are all small men, light and with plenty of quickness. If they can overcome the odds against them, in order to obtain this type of team, it is necessary for every man that signed up for the sport to get out for practices every day, and put his best efforts into the game.

SOPHOMORES HAVE BETTER AND MORE EFFICIENT TEAM THAN THE FRESHMEN

All of the club’s men from the frosh showed at the beginning of the season in excellent condition. By the time they met the first opposition, the Frosh had made it possible for the rowing authority to name two more felts and make up the seven-man crew. They have a snappy signal drill, visions of a terrific practice they should develop quite an order early next season. The men that do not come out will probably take care of the schedule for the first time.

BASKETBALL PLANS GIVEN OUT AT RALLY

Twenty-two aspirants for the basketball against Cumberland University are looking forward to the fall season, which will begin in mid-November. The squad will be slightly altered due to the changes in the team system. It was announced that Dartmouth appears on the schedule for the opening game. The boys are all looking forward to the season.

SOPHOMORE Team Develops Rapidly

Sophomore Harvard has already made plans for a season that will be much farther along in their training than the frosh and are beginning to show some knowledge of teamwork. The men that are out for the frosh are all small, light men and will probably take care of the schedule for the first time.

BEAVER SOCCER TEAM LOSES COACH McNAB

Twenty candidates report to Captain McNab Monday night. Hoping for the coming soccer season, the boys are looking forward to the season. McNab has made a new contract with the Institute crew at the end of his Sophomore year.

FIVE SHOLS ON WATER

First Time This Year--- Four ‘25 Men On Varsity

There was much hustle and bustle about the boat house yesterday afternoon when two varsity and three class boats hit the water for the first time this fall season. It was about as smooth as could be expected in the initial workout of the season.

The crew held yesterday marked the first time that the institution’s waterfront "crew" has been in practice. It also accounted for the first time that the team had been seen in public since it had arrived on campus yesterday bringing the total out for the coming season to a total of 175. In the crew are 160 freshmen.

At the meeting Monday, March Green, interim coach of Cornell, announced that the coach of the varsity team, Mr. H. R. Smith, would be unable to do any coaching. The coach himself has been assigned to instruct the varsity and the Frosh varsity, a艰巨 task but a very desirable one, in the handling of the Cornell boat for the coming season.

It was announced that the Sophomore team would be out the remainder of the week, and the Frosh varsity would be out two days later. The Frosh varsity will probably start the work next Monday.

FOOTBALL TEAMS DEVELOP SLOWLY

Haines, anxious about the form shown at the beginning of the season, plans to have the varsity eight ready for the opening game at the Baltimore Athletic Club. The form shown at the beginning of the season is not a sign of what the team will be able to do in the future. The Frosh will probably use the junior eight, too, at the beginning of the season.

One of the most important changes in the team will be the handling of the Cornell boat. The Cornell boat, under the leadership of Mr. H. R. Smith, will probably be the key to the season.

The Frosh varsity will probably use the junior eight, too, at the beginning of the season.

The men that are out for the frosh are all small, light men and will probably take care of the schedule for the first time.

Fifteen members of last year’s crew made it possible for the rowing authority to name two more felts and make up the seven-man crew. They have a snappy signal drill, visions of a terrific practice they should develop quite an order early next season.
