ALL TECHNOLOGY SMOKER

A DVICE, more advice, and still more advice! Get this instructor and be sure to keep away from that instructor. Go out and get a good job and get away from that instructor. Go out and smoke away for activities at all. For three weeks the poor freshman has listened to advice in his classes, read it in his fraternities, and in his frat publications, and today and in many respects as unmitigated evil. What is the actual situation?

For count number one, the excessive proponent of this method is the freshman himself. He is marrying the idea of fraternities of going mouth to mouth and ear to ear rushing some two weeks before the opening of school. Aside from the fact that the man must pay the expense of two additional weeks in the city, this is an exceedingly much more

For count number two, there is the interference with the freshmen taking their entrance examinations. The examination room is an automatic furnace, and the fraternities bit upon as likely material are worried and homesick, that is, "mained" in a way that could not but be detrimental to the whole year's work.

From count number three there is the utter lack of astringent spirit and order in the new freshman. He is a man ready to be talked into anything, be it a meeting with the unmitigated fury of the desire to get men; in other words it is the man who is ready to see a lot of things because he does not know how to resist. He is ready with no checks and no punishments the system is a purely external system and is therefore a failure and does not accomplish much good.

The unlucky freshman is the goat of the whole furor. He is drawn in as a member of this organization which is numbered upon as likely to be the salvation of the situation. It is incumbent upon him at this time to state at least a few plans in his platform. (With the abstinence of constructive policies)

IS FRATERNITY RISKING A FAILURE?

A HONEST inquiry into the present status of fraternities at Technology can lead to but one conclusion. The presentChapters are in the hands of the freshmen, and in many respects as unmitigated evil. What is the actual situation?

For count number one, the excessive proponent of this method is the freshman himself. He is marrying the idea of fraternities of going mouth to mouth and ear to ear rushing some two weeks before the opening of school. Aside from the fact that the man must pay the expense of two additional weeks in the city, this is an exceedingly much more

For count number two, there is the interference with the freshmen taking their entrance examinations. The examination room is an automatic furnace, and the fraternities bit upon as likely material are worried and homesick, that is, "mained" in a way that could not but be detrimental to the whole year's work.

From count number three there is the utter lack of astringent spirit and order in the new freshman. He is a man ready to be talked into anything, be it a meeting with the unmitigated fury of the desire to get men; in other words it is the man who is ready to see a lot of things because he does not know how to resist. He is ready with no checks and no punishments the system is a purely external system and is therefore a failure and does not accomplish much good.

The unlucky freshman is the goat of the whole furor. He is drawn in as a member of this organization which is numbered upon as likely to be the salvation of the situation. It is incumbent upon him at this time to state at least a few plans in his platform. (With the abstinence of constructive policies)

MINOR KEY

DOLLARS.

THE COLLEGIATE SHOP

THE COLLEGIATE SHOP opens its doors on SATURDAY, OCTOBER TENTH, offering for your selection a complete line of men's wear—everything from school uniforms to late European styles. While we do not carry an ordinary grade of men's furnishings, yet our stock is priced most reasonably. Service in our store is such that each customer is given the individual attention he deserves at a price which is particularly interesting on account of the high quality goods we carry. It is trained, and also on account of the fact that we believe in promptness. We are never able to present anything to the customer in the spring term.

In charge of this issue: A. D. Greene '26

THE TECH

THE TECH

Director

Chemical Warfare Company First Of Kind In Country

(To the establishment of Chemical Warfare Company First of Kind in Country

MAYOR OF BOSTON

Yielding to the representations of a large body of the constituent citizens of Boston, who for many weeks have urged in his behalf the appointment of the Seventy-Fourth in the Maine Volunteer, the Governor of the Commonwealth, after a careful examination of the case, has determined to recommend the appointment of Major John F. Howard to the rank of Brigadier General in the United States Army.

The editorial purported to prove that both fraternities and fresh-