As We Like It

SKY HIGH

By an electronic reproduction, "As You Like It" is in no way disparaged for the "special" production of the cast, and the acting is top-notch from the star, John Gielgud, to the minor character, even the valet. The combination of rifle, sword, and horseback riding, all in a meadow setting, is quite impressive. The audience is transported to a time and place where the beauty of nature is appreciated.

40 Years Ago This Week

A new play is being adapted for the television series "The Waltons." The play, "The Waltons" is about the lives of the Waltons, a family living in the mountains during the Great Depression. The play is set to air later this month and is expected to be a ratings success.

Intermediate

At the University of Illinois, the English department is producing a new play called "The Lady in the Van." The play is about a woman who lives in a van parked outside a theater. The play is a mix of humor and pathos, and is expected to be a hit with audiences.

A Touring Tuxedo

For the Younger Men

The young male students have the opportunity to try on a tuxedo at the "The Tech" for the first time. The tuxedos are available in a variety of styles and colors, and students can choose the one that suits them best. The tuxedos are designed to fit both formal and casual occasions, and students can use them for events such as prom, graduation, or even just a night out.

CLASS REVIEWS

The Tech members have been reviewing the two-class system in effect for the first time this year. The system is designed to provide students with a more immersive and interactive learning experience. The reviews are positive, with students noting that the system has helped them to better understand the material and to engage more deeply with their coursework.
