WHICH COMES FIRST?

The relationship between technology and drama is a complex one, as evidenced by the recent addition of a student auditorium to the main campus. This auditorium, while serving its intended purpose, has also sparked discussion among students and faculty regarding its implications for college spirit and community engagement.

In many ways, Walker Memorial, as it stands today, does not adequately address the social needs of Technology. For one thing, to make a place like the main hall serve as a cafeteria in an anomaly; for another, it does not adequately serve the social needs of Technology. For instance, the construction of a student auditorium would naturally be of stone in harmony with the other buildings; and a hall with a stage suitable for plays for the enjoyment of the public. In several ways, Walker Memorial as at present constituted does not fulfill this need. Thus, there is Tech Show; but only a small number can be accommodated, and it is not a permanent solution. Meanwhile the uninitiated ask: What is this College Spirit as "Ljove for Alma Mater, respect for her Traditions, and many other suggestions. It is almost never found in the classrooms; but is omnipresent idea? Meanwhile the uninitiated ask: What is this

In the past, Technology has not been privileged to have all the support it needs. Up until now, it has been more of an endeavor on the part of the students and faculty. However, with the addition of the student auditorium, the support of every single Institute student is needed. Obviously, the support of the organized groups must be enlisted first. Can we count on the cooperation of the activities, fraternities, and dormitories? If so, the battle is half won. The first opportunity occasion for showing this Technology Spirit will come on the night of the opening of the Playhouse Club. The support of every single Institute student is needed. Obviously, the support of the organized groups must be enlisted first. Can we count on the cooperation of the activities, fraternities, and dormitories? If so, the battle is half won. The first opportunity occasion for showing this Technology Spirit will come on the night of the opening of the Playhouse Club.

The last and perhaps the most important argument is of a more practical nature. For instance, in the case of the construction of a student auditorium, the Institute, is not the construction of a student auditorium of worth considering whether an even more

The Case for the "Court"

The arguments against the World Court are also threefold. The first is that the World Court, like the League of Nations, is without power of enforcement. The World Court, as such, is composed of representatives of many possible countries. Germany, Britain, France, Japan, and that as such, one can say that the World Court is a voluntary association to which the World Court, should there be a conflict, can be submitted to the court. The argument is that the World Court is a voluntary association to which the World Court, should there be a conflict, can be submitted to the court. This is the argument for some mouths now. Many dramatic critics have been very hurt by the decision. These steps may be taken with regard to the World Court.

Furthermore, it is argued that the World Court as an international organization, lacks the power of enforcement of its judgments, which would lead to the total destruction of the operation of the World Court. It is said that the World Court, as such, is not a voluntary association, but is composed of representatives of sovereign states.
