Win Only Four Contests Out of Fourteen Trips

By Carl J. Bernhardt '28

WINNER OF THE 1926-27 SEASON, the Big Green of Dartmouth will be the first game of the season for Captain Eorrester and Coach McCarthy, and will materialize in the form of a formidable contest. Dartmouth, although not a well-organized team, is capable of pulling off a surprisingly good performance. The Institute passers obtained the basket only to roll it around and go out the other end. The victory was a thorn in the side of the engineering team, and it was a hard-fought game. The results of the game were negative for both teams, but the Institute emerged victorious.

In the last two games of the season, the Institute faced the strong Harvard team. The game was a close one, and the Institute managed to hold onto their lead in the final few seconds. The team passed all the pep that was significant in their previous engagements and in the Brown game, the team was victorious. The Engineers, however, lost to the Brown team, 91-78, in a game that was never headed.

The spring track season opened with great success. The team finished first at the New Haven meet and second at the University of Connecticut meet. The team was also first in the foils team championships, but the Air Force team was the strongest. The Naval Academy also boasts of strong rivals, but the Engineers have outpointed them in the last two games of the season.

The track team is made up of a strong group of athletes, and the members are out for track spending only on those occasions when they are not in class. The team is under the direction of Manager James A. Cantrell, and is coached by F. P. McCarthy. The team is expected to do well in the upcoming season.
