With the Beavers thrown into obscurity it is up to the respective close teams to bring forth fine baseball into the foreground. Last season on account of the appearance of the powerful Beaver nine, the class teams were practically unheard of. There was a lag, however, but it was not due to heavy probability. Each team played six games and the games were played in the last couple of weeks, with flying colors, losing only one game. Now that the Beavers are out of the limelight, it is only a question of a couple of weeks to determine whether the class teams will show the spirit that prevailed two years ago.

With both of the Institute diamonds in good shape it won't be long before the knuckles will be seen zipping around the bases. The class teams will start practice either tomorrow or Wednesday, as they will have to be in shape for the game. Now that the Beavers are out of the limelight, it is only a question of a couple of weeks to determine whether the class teams will show the spirit that prevailed two years ago.

Experience—

In no industry is experience in manufacture more essential than in the production of explosives. Physical control of the product is paramount.
