Another View on the Prohibition
Question Presented by a Supporter

Carl H. N. is published every Thursday in the opinion of the Student Senate, and is written exclusively for the use of the students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In this week's article, April 3, it is noted that the student body is divided on the issue of Prohibition. The article discusses the arguments presented by different groups and concludes with a call to the MIT community to consider the issue in a thoughtful manner.

The author begins by mentioning the division among the student body regarding Prohibition. He then goes on to discuss the arguments presented by different groups. He mentions that some students believe that Prohibition is necessary to protect the public health, while others believe that it is an infringement on personal liberty. He also notes that some students are in favor of a more moderate approach, such as the Eighteenth Amendment, while others are against it altogether.

The article then goes on to discuss the impact of Prohibition on MIT. It mentions that the MIT community has experienced a decrease in revenue due to the decline in revenue from the sale of liquor. The author notes that this has had a negative impact on the budget and has created a corresponding decrease in the return from the Student Association.

The article concludes by calling on the MIT community to consider the issue of Prohibition in a thoughtful manner. It suggests that the best course of action is to seek a compromise that balances the need to protect the public health with the need to respect individual rights.
