OUTLINES ADVANCE OF MEDICAL ART IN RECENT YEARS

Valvellar Tells A.C.S. of Drugs — Lahmeyer Discourses of Abrasives

Outlines presented progress in the field of synthetic medi-cinals, Dr. William H. Valvellar of the Harvard Medical School, and Dr. Louis F. Lahmeyer of the American Chemical Society in Walker Friday evening. The second speaker, who delivered the annual address of the American Chemical Society, spoke of "Some Chemical-Pharmaceu-tical Researches" in the monthly meeting of the North-eastern Section of the American Chemical Society in Walker Friday evening. The second speaker, who delivered the annual address of the American Chemical Society, spoke of "Some Chemical-Pharmaceu-tical Researches" in the monthly meeting of the North-eastern Section of the American Chemical Society in Walker Friday evening. He corrected the special lecture in the subject of his address, and on the 2nd of the year. This year the number of freshmen who have graduated to the highest classes was up for election, and all were attending the annual assembly. In 1923, there was a record number of candidates for the office of freshmen in the class of 1924. Last year only 37 names were put up for election, and in the past three years, the number of freshmen who have graduated to the highest classes was up for election, and all were attending the annual assembly. In 1923, there was a record number of candidates for the office of freshmen in the class of 1924. Last year only 37 names were put up for election, and in the past three years, the number of freshmen who have graduated to the highest classes was up for election, and all were attending the annual assembly. In 1923, there was a record number of candidates for the office of freshmen in the class of 1924. Last year only 37 names were put up for election, and in the past three years, the number of freshmen who have graduated to the highest classes was up for election, and all were attending the annual assembly. In 1923, there was a record number of candidates for the office of freshmen in the class of 1924. Last year only 37 names were put up for election, and in the past three years, the number of freshmen who have graduated to the highest classes was up for election, and all were attending the annual assembly. In 1923, there was a record number of candidates for the office of freshmen in the class of 1924. Last year only 37 names were put up for election, and in the past three years, the number of freshmen who have graduated to the highest classes was up for election, and all were attending the annual assembly.