PARADOXICAL TO SAY THE LEAST

LAST spring Dartmouth acquired a certain amount of fame as the 'athletic college.' A questionnaire, sponsored by a religious advertising association, proved that Dartmouth has the largest religious group of any college in the country. Newspapers seized the item with joyous avidity and maiden aunts were horror-stricken because their dear nephews were associated with a bunch of tripe.

Dartmouth undergraduate is to be an athlet in the eyes of the outside world.

One wonders, however, what our maiden aunts would think if they saw our 'athletes' going through a fraternity ceremony. Would they realize that the atmosphere was merely a pose, or would they marvel at the sentimentality. On the whole, there is a certain amount of truth in the charge that Dartmouth undergraduate is to be an athlet in the eyes of the outside world.

No uncomon thing to hear an undergraduate ridicule formal religion. He cannot see why anyone should waste time in such nonsense. He58 is a 'bunch of tripe.'

Is Dartmouth a college of professors, or is the majority merely stupefied?

It's no uncommon thing to hear an undergraduate ridicule formal religion. He cannot see why anyone should waste time in such nonsense. He is a 'bunch of tripe.'

We may remember, however, that what our maiden aunts would think if they saw our 'athletes' going through a fraternity ceremony. Would they realize that the atmosphere was merely a pose, or would they marvel at the sentimentality. On the whole, there is a certain amount of truth in the charge that Dartmouth undergraduate is to be an athlet in the eyes of the outside world.

MOON LADY

Moon Lady, by Eugene L. Price, Toronto, Ont.

MOON LADY, by Evan Chase, New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. $1.00.

Modern China furnishes a remarkable opportunity for viewing the customs and attitudes of the Orient today. Evan Chase, a former editor of the Peking American Guardian, has formed a good idea of Chinese life during the recent activities of the Chinese Communist domination.

Chase's book is the story of a girl of the New China who embodies much of the best of her country. This is a story of new ideas. She is in the leader of the new generation who is determined to make her own way in the world of the modern China.
