CALL MEETING TODAY

FRESHMEN RULES CREATE EXCITEMENT IN MEETING OF INSTITUTE COMMITTEE

Every one of those men in the freshmen class who were appointed as spokespeople for the enforcement of the Freshmen Rules is called to attend a meeting which will be held in Room 10-25 this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

"Shall Man of '31 Be Known as Class Devil? Is Freshman Officers' Query"

Prior to the present year, the first day in the month of September always marked the end of the summer vacation period and the beginning of the regular scholastic year. This year, however, that period has been expanded to include October 15th.

You all doubtless saw in Wednesday's TECH the article regarding the details of the Freshman Rules. Those of you who have been conscientiously considering this subject are no doubt perfectly justified; those of you who have not, I am afraid will be quite surprised when you find that the rules have been so extended. It is to be expected that the Freshmen Rules are for the benefit of the freshmen alone, as the rules in the regular life insurance are not for those who do not have it.

The mentioned period, which is much the same as that of last year, began on Monday, September 1. The acceptance period, which is the normal acceptance period, ends on Monday, September 15.

This year there are four weeks left in which the rules are effective, so be sure to read the rules before the end of the month.

In case of his death, the estate is divided among the members, with the exception of the president and the treasurer, who will receive a percentage of the estate.

"THE TECH" IS DEFENDED

Shortly following the question: "Any new business to be brought up?" Ralph T. P. Jenkins, head of the Rules Committee, adjourned the meeting of the committee in the Penfield Dining Room, Walker Memorial, yesterday afternoon, Frederic D. Riley, Jr., '28, rose and said: "I would like to say something concerning Wednesday's issue of THE TECH. It is my understanding that it was brought up in Executive Committee meeting yesterday, in the presence of students. A point of order was made that the Freshmen Rules Committee is a rule in which students have no vote unless they are a Freshman. I don't think they have a right to do that."
