WHITING PRESENTS HIS LAST CONCERT FOR THIS SEASON

Fine Program Contains Russian and Bohemian Music of Last Century

CLOSES POPULAR SERIES

New York String Quartet is Featured by Whiting in Program

Last night saw the presentation of the fifth and last of the five programs of a series which has been presented at the Institute during the past season by Mr. Whiting. The audience that gathered in Room 16-250 to hear the concert, which is free and open to the public, was larger than expected and was enjoying the program immensely.

Mr. Whiting opened his program with a selection from the Russian composer, Modest Mussorgsky. His piece, The Bells, was very well received by the audience. The program continued with a selection by the Bohemian composer, Bedřich Smetana, whose music was very popular and enjoyed by the audience.

A. D. LITTLE GIVES LAST ALDRED TALK

"Chemical Industry" Is Title of Address in Room 16-250 On Friday Afternoon
