Dedication Talk is Delivered by W. P. McCracken

At the Luncheon for the Dean, W. P. McCracken, chairman of the Dedication Committee, delivered an impressive and eloquent address, emphasizing the significance of the new building and its role in advancing the academic and scholarly pursuits of the institution.

Official, Undergraduate News Organ of M. I. T.

Vol. XLVI—No. 44

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., TUESDAY, JUNE 5, 1928

Price Five Cents

IMPRESSION OF CEREMONY AND SPEECHES MARK OPENING OF AERONAUTICAL BUILDING

DEDICATION TALK IS DELIVERED BY W. P. McCrackEN

Guggenheim, Warner, Means Are Among Speakers at The Exercises

MEANS MEDAL AWARDED

To the complete formation of a New England in War Was nothing but that famous which will be known in history as the home of the stranger, who adjudged winner over England division in the actual yellow parchment which Dr. Samuel McKnight presented on the occasion of the dedication of the new building, was made a grant of $290,000 in modern engineering education in the nation.

President of the Dedication Committee, W. P. McCracken, presented the Means Medal to Eugene Mirabelli, Assistant Professor of Electrical Engineering, for his contribution to the advancement of aeronautical engineering.

Appointments Of Institute Staff And Faculty Are Made

Promotes 7 to Full Professors Seven Others Are Made

Promotions and appointments on the faculty and instructing staff of M. I. T. (Continued on Page 3)

SPEECHES MARK OPENING OF AERONAUTICAL BUILDING

OPEN EMMA ROGERS ROOM FOR VISITORS

According to the announcement by Dean C. S. Frost, the Emma Rogers room will be open this afternoon between the hour of 1:00 and 2:30. Those who wish to visit the Emma Rogers room are welcome to avail themselves of this opportunity for seeing the new building of M. I. T.