... college influence. ... the satisfaction of building a greater bridge than ever before; to the joy that comes from catering solely to the business of it all—to the satisfaction of building, in... instructors keep us totally in the dark as to what the professional world is. Are we not guilty in our own juvenile way of exactly the same fallacy? Far from understanding ourselves, we hazard to say that we are not even aware of all the many opportunities that are offered them in their years at technology. This Founders Day Banquet has become an institution at the chapter, between the active men and the alumni. This year's affair was managed by Emmett G. Blake, '30. From the boy with the N'ugent's program in his hand to the highest seat in the house, every man and woman there was furnishing his own fun. The music, the dancing, the Chinese buffets, the importance of awaiting the findings of all the many opportunities that are offered them in their years at technology. That engineers are a boon to humanity through their service... the money to pay the salary for the engineering professor. Upon what basis are we... the N'ugents. Said to be ex-... W. J. Estee '31 furnished the music this week in a film fully as good as the one which we will present to you next week...

"SHOES MARK THE MAN"

It is with pleasure that THE TECH announces its new weekly Rotogravure Section, which made its first appearance on Friday. This does not supersede, but supplements the Rotogravure of local pictures, which we will print from time to time as the occasion warrants. There is no extra charge for this weekly supplement and the present charge of five cents a copy or $2.50 a year is still in effect.

We are anxious to have your comments and suggestions on the new supplement and they may be addressed to the Features Editor of THE TECH.

The next Rotogravure Section will appear in the issue of Wednesday, October 24th, and will be a feature of all following Wednesday issues.
