CREWS TO CONTINUE MORNING PRACTICE

Although the Varsity crews have been training from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. each day for two months, Harvard this week began its first serious training. This morning the boys turned out en masse at the Charles to catch the first rays of the sun. The river was surprizingly clear, and the boaters were able to work out according to plan. The crews are being trained in an effort to get all of their men into the swing of the boat, and to build up their strength. It was agreed that the men who had been training in the morning for the past two months would attend the evening practice this week.

...but a Mosquito blocked the way!

THE PARANA CANAL diggers had engineering brains and money aplenty. But they were blocked by the malaria-ridden hearing mosquitoes, which killed men by thousands. Then Greggs stamped out the mosquito. The fever was conquered. The Canal was completed. The importance of little things is recognized in the telephone industry too.
