Martineau has experimented on school children for over sixteen years.

Dr. John Long of Long Island University is convinced that swimming is directly responsible for much of the intelligence. The American Journal of Psychology.

"Swimming as a means of developing the intelligence was..." Dr. Martineau said. "I performed experiments upon children in the homes where a swimming pool had been installed..."