Saddened Frost Finds "Free" Bowling Costly

One snowing freshman believed the 1930-31 season was always "on the house," treated all his opponents to "free" racing club dates, and felt that it was his duty to help offset the increasing cost of bowling by offering his friends a chance to bowl "free.

One afternoon last week the floor of the basement of Old Main was covered with a layer of snow, and sunken bowling pins marked the course. The five inches that fell earlier in the week and the heavy snow during the following two days had made the job of clearing the alley a difficult one.

The students who made the Franklin Park trip, five were members of the squash team, another member, Herbert, and another, Albright, advertised that they were offering a "free" game to anyone who arrived at the club before 5:30. Four of the five players reported, and several others were present. When the game was called, the4 players agreed to play for a "free" game of bowling, the winner to have the meat and seafood at his disposal.

After consulting the official rules, it was decided that the winner was to be determined by the number of strikes in a game of 12 frames, with 12 strikes in the first frame being a shut-out, 11 strikes a 11 strike game, and so on.

Winning the "free" game, the winner has the chance of winning either a "free" game of squash or a "free" game of bowling, depending on which sport he chooses.
