Lowe N Institute

The Lowell Institute, a 19th century evening school for young men, which is held under the auspices of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was made possible through a fund raised by Mr. John Knowles Jr., the principal of Lowell Institute.

The purpose of the fund is to provide a free evening school for men who desired to carry on their study in some particular line, or for those who desired to specialize in some subject which they could not otherwise find in the Lowell Institution School. This fund was established by Mr. John Knowles Jr., and his father, Mr. John Knowles Sr., who was one of the early founders of the Lowell Institute.

The Lowell Institute School has far surpassed the greatest expectations of its founders, and has become a great institution of advanced learning.
