ENGINEER FIELD STARS TO ENTER BOSTON 'Y' MEET

Many College, Independent Teams Will Compete in Opening Meet

SIX EVENTS ON BOARDS

To give his men a taste of real competition before the winter track season begins in earnest Field Coach Bowie has entered eight men in the Boston Y. M. C. A. track meet to be held tomorrow night at the Boston Y. M. C. A. Pierce, Benjamin, Walker, Coon, Tomlinson, and Sullivan will represent the Institute in the high jump while Bailey, Grondal, and Dahl-Hansen are entered in the shot put.

B. C. and Harvard Entered

Boston College has entered their entire team in the meet, while Harvard and Northeastern have several men competing. In addition to these men there will be many Y. M. C. A. men from Boston and vicinity entered. Although several running events are scheduled Coach Hedlund has decided not to enter any of his men in these events for the track is a rather dangerous one and the men would be handicapped greatly by being forced to wear sneakers for they are accustomed to wearing spikes.

Tomorrow afternoon the sixth handicap meet of the season will be held on the board track, starting at two o'clock. Six events are to be run off including a two lap race, a five lap race, a nine lap race, fifty yard dash, broad jump and shot put. These Saturday afternoon meets are becoming more popular than ever before and a large number of entrants is expected. Of late as many as three heats have been held in some of the middle distance races to accommodate all the contestants.

Relay Teams Start Practice

Beginning next week practice will be held for the Varsity and freshmen relay teams in preparation for the first meet of the season which occurs on January 31. This meet is the K. of C. games to be held at the Boston Garden. Coach Hedlund is planning to enter both Varsity and Freshmen relay teams together with other men to compete in the individual events.

A very successful handicap meet was held the Saturday before vacation with more men entered than in any other meet this season. Three heats were held in the 300 yard run and also in the dash, while two were necessary in the hurdles. Hall turned in the best performance of the day when he was clocked in the time of 2 min. 27.5 sec. in the 1000 yard run. This time betters the previous best time, also held by Hall and made earlier in the fall, but was not allowed to stand as a new record because a generous handicap allowed another runner to come in first and Hall finished second.

Saturday, January 24 is the deadline for freshmen to sign up for track in place of P. T. for the second term. It is hoped that all who substituted this sport for P. T. during the first term will sign up again and that many other freshmen will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Freshman Cagers In Stiff Training For Andover Game

Passing, Foot Work Stressed By Coach In Practices For Third Game

Yearling basketball players will meet their opponent of this season in a game with Andover at Andover tomorrow. In the two games prior to this the first with Northeastern and the second with Wentworth Academy, the Beaver freshmen were defeated by the close margins of 4 and 8 points.

Since the end of vacation Coach McCarthy has been putting the first year team through rigorous drills on passing and foot work. The result is a marked improvement and a better showing is expected of the team on tomorrow evening.

Although this game will be Andover's first it will probably be very close and fast. The lineup includes two of last year's stars, Kettle and Capt. Kellog as well as additional experienced material on both the team and bench. The starting lineup for Technology will have Eamond and O'Brien at forward, Rimbach at center, and Steele and Greene at guard with Lawrence, Keyser and Struck as substitutes.

According to an investigation by Louis T. Dublin, statistician by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, college-bred men live longer on the average than others without that advantage.

Varsity Natators Anticipate Fray Against Amherst

Team Has Trained Fine With Hopes of Defeating Its Hardest Rival

With the Varsity Swimming Team journeying to Amherst, next Saturday to meet the representatives of Lord Jeff, and the freshmen going over to Malden to battle the natators of the high school, the Institute tanksters will have a busy week-end. Captain Lutz has been drilling his team at the University Club each afternoon, and since the inter-class meet, the men have been concentrating on their individual specialties. Captain Lutz, himself, has been working for additional speed, as he devotes himself to the shorter sprints, and with Teague, will represent the Beavers in the Saturday meet.

Won Meet Last Year

The Amherst meet last year was won by a very close score, and this year's come-together promises to be just as spiritedly contested. This is always one of the hardest contests which the swimmers face each year, and every man is prepared to go the limit to win his event. Lynch and Crick are working at their diving intensively, and expect to turn in a good rating there, which should be augmented by numerous other events. The relay team, which was beaten by the freshman team in the interclass meet, has been undergoing changes, which admit the men more particularly qualified for the race. In the 440 yard class, Wilder, Henning and Baker will carry the colors, and Levinson and McNeil are entered for the 150 yard back stroke.

The freshmen anticipate an easy afternoon against the Malden squad, and should come out far in the lead. They have a large number of excellent men, and winning the interclass meet shows that they are not to be scorned, even by a very strong group of swimmers.

Large Dirt Floor In New Rochester Athletic Building

Indoor Baseball Field One Of Facilities Provided by New Plant

The University of Rochester, at Rochester, New York, has probably one of the finest indoor athletic plants to be found at any American college. In addition to containing the usual gym floor for basketball games and gym work, it has a second floor with permanent seats for 2100 spectators, a swimming pool, and a large dirt floor on which a full sized baseball infield can be laid out. Around the earth floor is a 12 foot dirt track. Six squash and handball courts and several large shower and locker rooms make up the remainder of the space available for use in the plant.

The two gym floors are laid out in basketball courts so that four intermural or practice games can be carried on at one time. For the varsity intercollegiate games, a large court on the upper floor is used. Adequate facilities for handling the capacity of 2100 are provided, and the checking room is said to be able to take care of the crowd in a short time.

The indoor baseball field provides facilities for continuing practice in that sport during bad weather, and the dirt track permits runners to get their regular work during the winter and early spring when it is impossible to use the outdoor track. Candidates for positions in the field events can continue their practice when the baseball team is not using the central portion of the floor.

On rainy days in the fall, instead of having lectures and "skull practice" on the various plays, as is done at other colleges, the football team holds its regular work-out, only at these times it is held indoors.

The natatorium in the building is well equipped, and the shower and locker rooms in the plant are all large.

The equipment in the building makes it possible for the University to have all football, baseball, and track under cover during inclement weather. Four games of basketball can be played at the same time, and a track meet, swimming meet, and squash meet can all be held at one time.

ENGINEER HOCKEY TEAM DROPS GAME TO NORTHEASTERN

Two Scores In Second Period Spell Defeat For The Beaver Squad

CARTER, ALCORN SCORE

Technology's hockey team again went down in defeat, this time to Northeastern University, by a 2-0 score. Playing a fast game last Wednesday evening at the Boston Arena, the Tech-N. U. game was half of a doubleheader. The other game, played between the quarters of the college game, was a semi-pro game between the University Club and the Providence Club. The contrast in the two games was marked, the college game being much cleaner and practically as fast.

Nearly the entire game was played at the Northeastern end of the rink. It seemed that the shots going for the net seemed fated not to go in, for they were certainly numerous enough. The two goals for Northeastern were scored on several of those rare sallies into the Technology end of the rink. Both goals were scored in the second quarter, the first after about six minutes of play and the second with only seconds of the quarter left.

Huskies Lead Offensive

The loss came as somewhat of a surprise to the Beaver adherent for they had figured that the experience of the Tech team should give it a victory. The players certainly did not take any advantage of it, for although there were occasional spurges of teamwork, the game looked like a continuous scramble around the Northeastern goal.

The game started off rather slowly although M. I. T. got the puck and kept it down at their opponent's goal line. Ford and Orbanowski both missed a few potshots at the Northeastern goal. They had several very nice openings but could not seem to be able to take advantage of them. The second line, early replacing the first, was in much the same predicament as the first string. Whiston made several nice stops of Northeastern shots in the first quarter.

In the second quarter the play went a bit faster. Orbanowski gave the crowd quite a thrill with a bit of clever skating. Then suddenly there was an immense scramble around the Tech goal. The puck was pushed around considerably and finally went in the wicket. It rather looked as though the puck had flicked off the stick of one of the Beaver players but Carter of the Huskies was given credit for the score. Orbanowski put a nice shot into the Northeastern wicket but the play was called back on account of an offside. Very late in the same quarter Alcorn made a long shot about neck high which Whiston vainly reached for.

Fast and furious playing characterized the third quarter. The Beavers let up on their defense and sent four men down on the offense and late in the period sent all five in the middle and forward ice, but all to no avail. At one time there were only four men on the ice for the Northeastern team but those four guarded closely to keep the shots away from their goal. The game ended with the Beavers in an effort to get down the ice in scoring position.

The summary of the game follows:

Technology	Northeastern
Ford, Regan, Coleman, I.W.	I.W., Walsh, Anderson, Alcorn
Hall, Cochrane, c.m.c., Sommers, Kreusel	Orbanowski, Fahey, r.w.
	r.w., Carter, Diskin, Martain
	Peterson, r.d., r.d., Rice, McLeod
	Hazeltine, Steverman, I.d.
	I.d., McMullen
	Whiston, g., g., Kuposki

To the Editor of THE TECH:

I am very glad of the opportunity which you offer me to say a word about your recent novelty, "Books and Features" in your issue of December 15. It is a long time since THE TECH has shown any enterprise of the sort and I congratulate the Board on an interesting plan and a still more interesting result. As Mr. Dumit said in your Wednesday issue, I believe there is a place for that sort of thing in the Institute.

Considering that this was the first attempt of the sort for the present Board and particularly for Mr. Schneider, who, I understand, was responsible for carrying it through, it was a pretty good job. The short story was well written and had a definite flavor and personality all its own. The same may be said of the longer essay. Perhaps the book reviews could be improved, not in the individual reviews but in the selection of the books. I understand that the Board used such books as the publishers had sent them. My experience is that the books which publishers send you are seldom the books you really want to review, and in this case, several of them were hardly worth the work put upon them. If a more careful selection were made in the book reviews, and an essay chosen perhaps a little more pungent and immediate in its theme and treatment, and a story perhaps not quite so remote from our common experience, another attempt at such a department, which, I understand and hope that you are going to make, ought to be even more worth while than the present experiment, on which I congratulate you heartily.

SQUASH QUINTET TO MEET TRINITY TEAM

Coach Summer's squash team meets the Trinity College team tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock on the M. I. T. courts. The team this year has not been particularly successful but they have been gradually winning a few more games per match. This meet should prove good entertainment for the many squash fans about the Institute.

COMPLETE ROUND IN SQUASH TOURNAY

Dormitory squash has reached the second round with Eder, Garcia, Limpisovasti, Faddis, Payne, Rice, Triouleyre, Newman, and Rosas still in the running. The deadline for the round is January 12 and all the matches not played by then will be crossed off the books.

Squash racquets and balls have been purchased by the Dormitory Committee for the use of Dorm men and they may be obtained from Frank H. Simon '31, chairman of athletics, in Ware 201.

In the collision of an automobile and a deer near Oil City, Pa., the car was wrecked.

Feustel Expected To Start Second Game Tomorrow

Textile Team Composed of All Lettermen—Close Game Anticipated

ever, the Beavers were not at their full strength as they will be tomorrow night. Feustel and Harrison will be at the forwards, Motter at center, and Sysko and Johnson at guards. This combination should show a great deal of scoring power, more even than was displayed in the Newport game, which was promising enough. Other men likely to see action in the game are Stockwell, Coffey, and Castleman.

There will not be a Beaver Key Society dance after the game as was originally intended due to the fact that there are too many other social activities occurring the next three weeks before examinations.

MOVING PICTURES TO FEATURE MEETING

The Technology Photographic Society will hold a meeting today, at five o'clock, in 5-130 at which a moving picture will be shown. At the last meeting, which was well attended, a two reel film of the Eastman Kodak Co. plant was run.

A series of moving pictures, of which the one to be shown Friday is the second, is to be given at frequent intervals, the dates to be announced later. All those interested are invited.

CORRECTION

Second term General Study, G 44, Philosophic Dramas of Literature, given by Professor Rogers is listed in the second term class schedule for Tuesday and Thursday. This is an error. The course will be given on Wednesday and Friday at 1 o'clock.
