BASKETBALL

In addition to some technical preparation for a course, college offers a every student one unique opportunity in life. What is done in college has influence in all phases of life after graduation, but it has no effect on the present. The chief work is not in the last weeks, but in the last weeks.

The major responsibilities of life are not directly connected with college. But to understand these responsibilities is the first step in college life. The major responsibilities are those of man, not of the student.

In the forethought of man, the future is not dependent upon what was done in college. The future is dependent upon what was done in college.
