inevitable limitation

Though the situation has not yet reached a critical state, the Institute will soon be faced with a more serious problem, the solving of which will make a complete reorganization of the entrance and educational plant of the Institute. The statement made in the "Letter to the Alumni" published on the occasion of the Alumni Association banquet a week ago, indicated an awareness of this. The present educational plant of the Institute is new and is being used practically at full capacity. This means that we are faced with the possibility of exercising a higher degree of control over the educational requirements of the student. It is no small way to the Institute's reputation, in its present form, to make a change in the educational requirements of the student. It is no small way to the Institute's reputation, in its present form, to make a change in the educational requirements of the student. It is no small way to the Institute's reputation, in its present form, to make a change in the educational requirements of the student.

The infeasibility of making a change in the educational requirements of the student is no small way to the Institute's reputation, in its present form, to make a change in the educational requirements of the student. It is no small way to the Institute's reputation, in its present form, to make a change in the educational requirements of the student. It is no small way to the Institute's reputation, in its present form, to make a change in the educational requirements of the student.

In order to make a change in the educational requirements of the student, the Institute will be faced with a more serious problem, the solving of which will make a complete reorganization of the entrance and educational plant of the Institute. The statement made in the "Letter to the Alumni" published on the occasion of the Alumni Association banquet a week ago, indicated an awareness of this. The present educational plant of the Institute is new and is being used practically at full capacity. This means that we are faced with the possibility of exercising a higher degree of control over the educational requirements of the student. It is no small way to the Institute's reputation, in its present form, to make a change in the educational requirements of the student.