POLITICS!

With the election from the list of nominees of the names of Albian Machinell and Harold S. Sprague, both of the Class of 1933 and candidates for president and vice-president, respectively, a new significance is brought to the election system employed by the undergraduate body of the Institute. Here, probably more than in any other college or university in the country, every effort is made to conduct the selection of class officers by the fairest and most honest procedure. A man should be chosen upon his merits and capabilities, and to make certain that he has no other basis for this choice, it was long ago seen fit to incorporate into the constitution of the Undergraduate Association the following sentence: "All forms of electioneering at the polls and any attempts to form voting blocks, etc., shall be prohibited."

Machiavel and Sprague have violated a trust which has been placed in those running for office, and were their action to be ignored, it would spell the defeat of the fundamental purposes of our student government. Their circulars were nothing more than a cry for votes, and doubtless many of the members of this class would have fallen for the ruse. They are probably unaware of the pernicious effect that such a practice has on the students, as they have been influenced to ignore the constitution which guides the policies of all student action at Technology. They are in the dark as to the wheels which have been turned, and the harm they have done, and in the darkness, they have thrown them.

The Executive Committee of the Institute Committee desires every阿尔法 for its timely action upon this matter. It is also desirous of having this chance for studentsDECIDE, as an imaginary as it is, but it is not the platform that is objectionable, it is the method of securing votes that is objectionable, and in the darkness, it has thrown them.

The Executive Committee of the Institute Committee desires every student for its timely action upon this matter. It is also desirous of having another chance for studentsDECIDE, as an imaginary as it is, but it is not the platform that is objectionable, it is the method of securing votes that is objectionable, and in the darkness, it has thrown them.

The Executive Committee of the Institute Committee desires every student for its timely action upon this matter. It is also desirous of having another chance for students DECIDE, as an imaginary as it is, but it is not the platform that is objectionable, it is the method of securing votes that is objectionable, and in the darkness, it has thrown them.

The Executive Committee of the Institute Committee desires every student for its timely action upon this matter. It is also desirous of having another chance for students DECIDE, as an imaginary as it is, but it is not the platform that is objectionable, it is the method of securing votes that is objectionable, and in the darkness, it has thrown them.

The Executive Committee of the Institute Committee desires every student for its timely action upon this matter. It is also desirous of having another chance for students DECIDE, as an imaginary as it is, but it is not the platform that is objectionable, it is the method of securing votes that is objectionable, and in the darkness, it has thrown them.

The Executive Committee of the Institute Committee desires every student for its timely action upon this matter. It is also desirous of having another chance for students DECIDE, as an imaginary as it is, but it is not the platform that is objectionable, it is the method of securing votes that is objectionable, and in the darkness, it has thrown them.

The Executive Committee of the Institute Committee desires every student for its timely action upon this matter. It is also desirous of having another chance for students DECIDE, as an imaginary as it is, but it is not the platform that is objectionable, it is the method of securing votes that is objectionable, and in the darkness, it has thrown them.