Freshman Camp Features Rowing

New Men Will Have Chance to Row in Racing Shells At Massachusetts Rowing.

Promising freshmen will be given an opportunity to try out for the varsity crews of the Massachusetts Rowing Association in the coming season.

Two fresh boys will take the camp for demonstration purposes and will be under the supervision of the Freshman Crew Managers.

Teck Engineering News, the undergraduate technical journal of the Institute will make its initial appearance of the year Monday, registration day, when the annual subscription campaign will be started throughout the Technology Buildings and presented and the October issue distributed. For the feature article in this month's copy Dr. William T. Cooley, president of the Institute, has written an article entitled "Tailing Stock in 1931." This is in the nature of an appeal to the incoming freshman class. Other articles in the issue, written by Dr. W. J. Bueger, professor of mathematics and philosophy, and a student article on the George Washington Bridge across the Hudson at 100th Street, New York, are on "Turbo Electric Ship Propulsion" by a member of the General Electric credit corporation.

Subscription Campaign.

Plans have been completed for the regular subscription campaign which will be held in the Institute halls and is designed for the freshman and the non-sportsman. In order to secure the maximum publicity which appears necessary during the school year and which is the only student publication using articles of a technical nature. Both students, mechanical and non from the faculty and industry are contributors to the magazine.

Substitute for P.T.

As all freshmen probably know, first month of instruction is required to take physical training. The importance of this requirement was held for the last 10 weeks of the fall and will be continued in the spring. Freshmen are required to take regular physical exercises one night a week in order to be eligible for the competitive crew.

Fellows have been called by Dr. R. L. W'ingley, manager of the varsity team, to inform them that the next session will begin Monday, October 10th.
