Beavers favored to down huskies in double-header

Technology Sestet has slight edge in early morning
Scrimmages to date

First game for N. U.

Having plenty of opportunity to practice during the holidays, a Boston and a better-conditioned Technology hockey team will go on the ice tonight, when the Beaver goal line is challenged by the Sestet. For the other half of the 1st half, the N. U. team will entertain the Harvard Hockey Club.

For the Boston Hockey Club, the N. U. hockey team is playing for the second time. Both the Beaver and the Sestet have been in high spirits for the past week, and have been practicing in the Best Night Technology. The Beaver has a better team but has lost a point in the second game against the Engineers. This was a close game, but on Tuesday evening the Beaver will try again.

Huskies lose northernmost namesakes.

At the University, the Huskies have been given first rate opportunities. However, the first-rate opportunities are not in the first-rate group. The Huskies have several prospects for the future, but the present prospects are not in the first-rate group.

Seventh Senior Admitted Free of Charge To Class Dance

Will Meet Expenses With Funds From Class Treasury;

One week from today, the Class of 1928 will enjoy annual Alumni dance. The Senior Class: All expenses of the affair will be paid for by the Class Treasury. Because of this fact, and also because of the class standing, the entire student body will be admitted free of charge.

Following the usual procedure in the course of the affair, the officers of the class will act as the chairman of the event. Also in keeping with these regulations, the class chairman will act as chairman. The Class President will announce the program and start the dance.

Food Will Be Served

Ice cream and cake will be served. A large group of Bostonians and visitors will meet in the Union.

Tickets Next Week

According to an oral order, tickets will be sold in the Union, Friday, Dec. 1. They will be distributed on Tuesday. Wednesday, Dec. 2, Saturday, Dec. 6, in the Main Lobby.

Tech Sends Delegate to Rhode Island

Technology was represented by a niece as visiting delegate to the Providence YMCA during the Christmas season. The purpose of the meeting was to provide an opportunity for Providence high school students to talk with representatives of several colleges. Thirty-seven students were represented and the meeting was attended by over two hundred.

Each delegate occupied a separate desk where he had a name of his choice. Four of the boys' parents were much interested in Technology and for some unknown reason they all four insisted on seeing Dr. Leach, the very best of all.

In order to get the girls back to the dormitory and to get the Lehig girls home, they were to have a second call at the day's end.

Don't run the risk of losing a dollar

Or not getting your money back

Charge it to your bursar's account