CER DECISIVE VICTORY

SWIMMERS DEFEAT AMHERST AT HOME POOL, SCORE 42-35

Flandres Breaks Old Record For Breast Stroke, Cuts 4.5 Seconds From Time

AMHERST CAPTAIN STARS

Individual Stars Of Amherst Taken Down By A Balanced Team

Talcing first and second places in four events, the M.I.T. swimming team defeated the Amherst men, 42-35, yesterday afternoon, in a well-patricipated meet. As a result, the relay, the only tie match of the day, gave the Bakers their first victory of the season over any team in company with the four meets they have won. The Bakers have lost only one meet.

For the past several days the two teams have been making the best efforts to prepare for this match. In the 299-yard breast stroke, Flandres of the Bakers took the first place, with St. John from Amherst second, and Mooch, also of the Bakers, third.

In the 220-yard dash, the race was between four men, the first two being Flandres and Henning from the Bakers, and Henning and Kron of the Amherst Navy. Henning took first and second easily, giving Flandres third place.

In the 100-yard dash, the race was between the Bakers' river and the Amherst Navy. Each team produced two runners, who went with each event. Second came the Bakers' river, with strong teams from Amherst, M.I.T., and Bowdoin. Flanders was particularly good, giving the freshmen from the Bakers' river the victory. His time was 10.15.

In the medley, the Bakers were again victorious, with the Amherst Navy second, but the next Amherst man was too far behind to challenge their victory. The Bakers' time was 2:39.40, and the second place 2:40.30.

The match was held in New York in the International Tennis Club. The match was won by the Bakers, 15-8, 15-8, and 15-11, all in favor of the Amherst Navy.

At the final count of the winning M.I.T. team, the January issue of the Tech Engineering News makes its best in the nation. Henceforth it will be under the supervision of the newly-formed Massachusetts Institute of Technology swimming team, under the direction of Charles J. Stiles, head of the Bakers' river.

The annual meeting and dinner of the Alumni Association of Technology will be held at the Hotel Stork on February 6. The Alumni Association has recently been organized, and it is expected that many of the old graduates will attend the dinner. The dinner will be President, and Mrs. Karl T. Compton, and Professors M. L. Lewis, and R. L. Millikan will address the alumni on various subjects of interest.
