Death Takes Miss Isabel Hyams '88

Ending Work in Health Education

Founded Clubs For Child Health Education; Sponsor Of Prevenatorium

Miss Isabel Hyams '88, philanthropist and woman of wide cultural interests, died at her home in New York City, February 16, after a brief illness. She was 88 years old.

Miss Hyams was a member of the Institute and a vice-president of the M. I. T. Student Union. She was active in many philanthropic and cultural enterprises, and was a member of the Board of Directors of the Institute.

She was a member of the Board of Directors of the Institute and a member of the Board of Trustees of the M. I. T. Alumni Association. She was also a member of the Board of Directors of the Institute's Education Fund.

Miss Hyams was a member of the Board of Directors of the Institute and a member of the Board of Trustees of the M. I. T. Alumni Association. She was also a member of the Board of Directors of the Institute's Education Fund.

She was a member of the Board of Directors of the Institute and a member of the Board of Trustees of the M. I. T. Alumni Association. She was also a member of the Board of Directors of the Institute's Education Fund.

Students in U. S. S. R. Maintained by Government, Families Supported Too

University Departments Are Under Professional Supervision

Students in the U. S. S. R. have no particular problems — no need for working their way through school, for instance. For the universities of the U. S. S. R., the Ministry of Public Education is responsible for all phases of educational activities. The Ministry is headed by a minister of education, who is assisted by a deputy minister and several under-secretaries. The Ministry is divided into two main sections: the Pedagogical Section and the Administrative Section.

The Pedagogical Section is responsible for the development of the educational system, including the preparation of curricula and textbooks, and the administration of the schools. The Administrative Section is responsible for the management of the universities, including the hiring of faculty, the maintenance of buildings, and the provision of financial support.

In addition to the Ministry of Public Education, there are several other organizations that are involved in the support of students in the U. S. S. R. The most important of these is the All-Union Student Union, which represents the interests of students throughout the country. The Union provides financial assistance to students, as well as organizing cultural and social activities.

In the Soviet Union, the family is considered to be the primary source of support for students. The Ministry of Public Education also provides financial assistance to students, but this is only a small part of their overall support. Most students are supported by their families, through financial assistance, or through the provision of housing and food.

Students in the U. S. S. R. have no particular problems — no need for working their way through school, for instance. For the universities of the U. S. S. R., the Ministry of Public Education is responsible for all phases of educational activities. The Ministry is headed by a minister of education, who is assisted by a deputy minister and several under-secretaries. The Ministry is divided into two main sections: the Pedagogical Section and the Administrative Section.

The Pedagogical Section is responsible for the development of the educational system, including the preparation of curricula and textbooks, and the administration of the schools. The Administrative Section is responsible for the management of the universities, including the hiring of faculty, the maintenance of buildings, and the provision of financial support.

In addition to the Ministry of Public Education, there are several other organizations that are involved in the support of students in the U. S. S. R. The most important of these is the All-Union Student Union, which represents the interests of students throughout the country. The Union provides financial assistance to students, as well as organizing cultural and social activities.

In the Soviet Union, the family is considered to be the primary source of support for students. The Ministry of Public Education also provides financial assistance to students, but this is only a small part of their overall support. Most students are supported by their families, through financial assistance, or through the provision of housing and food.