FOR A GREATER TECHNOLOGY

The action taken by the Corporation of the Institute at its recent meeting is an important step for the benefit of the student body, but the changes enacted in the administrative system can only be effective if the students continue to serve the ends for which this is set up. In addition, the changes are such that certain portions of the Institute will receive better recognition. As it has been the custom, they have been obtaining while listed as merely parts of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

As we understand the action of the Corporation, this latest move is in keeping with the change made two years ago when the office of Chairman of the Corporation was created. With the setting up of the office and its weekly meetings, a larger number of the Administration will be able to keep close touch with the various departments of the Institute. Better supervision of the departmental men and such cooperation might result. Under the new arrangement, however, the authority of the President will remain as it is, and it will have the final voice in questions of educational procedure.

The division of the work of the Institute has been made along lines into which the various departments naturally fall, and a recognition of the fact that there are at least three distinct groups of courses appear the point of wisdom. Through this separation it is to be expected that the divisions of Technology which are not associated with the average technical school will receive more recognition, and be able to accomplish more in their respective fields. As the Institute has been and shall be a cooperative institution, the total number of graduate degrees in engineering, distinct from the Graduate School and provision for its constructive administrative is an important step.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.

We have been given to understand that the organization of the Institute administration will be made to determine in what ways it may be simplified. It is our opinion that this section is a step in the right direction; simplification should proceed from the administrative system of better administration and greater proportion of boys.