Irish people. The sense of responsibility now placed on the shoulders of De Valera is as an executive head of the government would simultaneously restrict his actions. The worldwide depression is also felt. Indeed, and aggravations of the present situation by the bringing up of the question of the oath of allegiance to King George at this time would certainly be poor statement- ing, and Mr. O'Connor looks for De Valera to set quite slowly in the intro- duction of this question to the Dail Eireann, or Irish Parliament.
