ONE MORE GAME FOR ALLIGATORS

Because of the rapidly approaching end of the season and the elimination of the Aggies, the Alligators, who had Saturday won their first baseball game, will probably be able to play for one more contest. The game will be against the Harvard junior varsity nine, and will take place next Monday afternoon. Both teams have been getting in some excellent practice sessions of late, with the result that the team's play in the last two games has been greatly improved. The record now is one victory in eight games.
