President Compton Welcomes New Students to Institute

President Karl T. Compton Saturday afternoon issued the following welcoming to all new members of the Institute for the first time.

Dear Newcomers, To all entering the Institute,

To you, members of the large group of freshmen, transfer students, and graduate students who entered Technology for the first time this fall, I extend a most cordial welcome.

During the past two years the Institute was founded, it has continually worked to improve itself until now it is ready for you. Come to a time when you can see the Institute at its best. Just at the present time there is a small demand for the highly trained technical man, but in general the graduates of the Institute are wanted because those who prepare now will be ready for whatever opportunity may appear in the future. Give your best to your work. Have faith in the spirit of it, and make the most of the opportunities that are open for you.

(Signed) Karl T. Compton
President

This curtailment of enrollment, caused by present outstanding economic conditions are also responsible for an increased number of applications for scholarships and fellowships, the department from the Technology Loan Fund.

More than $177,000 in loans have been allotted to 360 men and 15 women who have been admitted to the Institute for the first time, 150 of whom have entered on an undergraduate degree and 40 on graduate degrees. These students have been granted $77,000 in loans to the Institute.

New Eastman Laboratories

Students returning to Technology this fall will find the new Eastman Research Laboratories for Physics and Chemistry in operation. The space provided for this new building, which forms a part of the east wing of the Education Building, is expected to facilitate the activities of the two departments and to make possible expansion of such departments as the geology building. The completion of the new buildings has been made possible by a gift of more than a million dollars and its equipment is under discussion with scientists and other institutions.

New Administration Plan Begins

With the opening of the Institute the old plan of a campus on the right, and various administrative offices and buildings around it, and a new plan for a more efficient administrative office and dormitory will be opened soon. The second dormitory will be in the present dormitory.
