COLD STORAGE ACTIVITIES

CLASSMEN have been under way for five weeks now. Student activities have started them off for the year, but there remain some societies, clubs, and groups that have not begun their activities. Every year there is an outcry against societies that have few or no activities and that do little or nothing except have their pictures in Technique. What reason there can be for the existence of these inactive activities is a question that arises yearly. Some of our classmate editors is "nothing." Our hopes hang on the next year's chief, but we have given up all hope. For others we still have hopes of something being done and their taking their place among the numerous student organizations. For some clubs we have given up all hope. For others we still have hopes of something being done and their taking their place among the numerous student organizations.
