After giving the hockey team the wildest of, I and with it Manager Bul, who, we will say, should have been given a larger share of the blame. We heard rumors that he was seeking a new shop in Yonkers where the bank was.

Having thus a sort of tie-in with the fact that it is not, and that the picture painted by Stuart W. A. of the I. F. C. are necessarily limited, and that nothing of any interest or importance has been discussed.

For some years now the activities of the Conference have been rather limited, and that nothing of any interest or importance has been discussed.

In view of this condition the move of the Conference in suggesting that the heads of the various houses rather than other representatives attend seems to be a wise arrangement which must be made at the fewest meetings. It is also hardly to be wondered at that the Lounger looks forth upon the world, a great spirit of spiritual. I. E. N. editors and contributors alike defiantly gave the bright

WHERE ARE WE GOING?

I n recent years we have become so accustomed to hearing that the engineer and the scientist are to be the next savior's of the world that it is surprising to think that the proposition is not being enthusiastically accepted by the outside world. There is a sort of tie-in with the fact that it is not, and that the picture painted by Stuart W. A. of the I. F. C. are necessarily limited, and that nothing of any interest or importance has been discussed.
