Mostafa Wais Preliminary by Default

Mostafa Wais, who was the first man sight, hearing, and systems of Institute, will address the class of the Annual Meeting of the student body on March 6. His paper will be presented in the cafeteria on Monday, at 8:00 p.m. The subject is: "The Eye: Recent Advances in Vision Research." The paper will be followed by a discussion and questions from the audience.

LECTURER EXPLAINS MYSTERIES OF WAVES

Professor Sears of Institute

The significance of the wave-nature of matter, which makes possible human sight, hearing, and states of living things, will be explained by Professor Francis W. Sears in the final popular lecture series at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology yesterday afternoon.

Speaking as "Waves andMotion," he demonstrated by striking the various properties of waves of light, sounds, and vibrations. Much place was given to the interference of waves, radio interference, why the sky is blue, and how light can be a wave or a particle, as well as a wave or a string. Waves have a wavelength, which is the distance from one wave to the next.

Sears said, "The waves are a very important part of our lives. They are all around us, and we use them every day." He then demonstrated how waves are used in everyday life, from radio to television to the Internet.

VOO DOO PRESENTS JUNIOR PROM ISSUE

Extra-Page Number Will Go On Sale Between Acts of Tech Show

You've heard about this month's Junior Prom committee's presentation, "Fancy That," but what about the Junior Prom issue of "Fancy That"? This year's Junior Prom will feature "Fancy That," and the reporter has been invited to attend the show. Here are some behind-the-scenes stories:

Leading Ladies of Tech Show Pare Incognito

Getting the lobby of the Hotel Bradford, the leading ladies of "Fancy That," Deb Enzey and Melvyn Wing, dressed in their ravishing costumes for the Tech Show, emerged considered absolutely womanly Friday evening prior to the radio program presented by the Tech Show committee. At 8:00 p.m., the reporter was directed to the "Fancy That" committee, directed by "Fancy That" manager, who was then ushered into the committee's dressing room.

"Fancy That" manager, who was then ushered into the committee's dressing room, was met by the committee's chairman, who was then ushered into the committee's dressing room. The reporter was then directed to the committee's dressing room, where the committee members were then ushered into the committee's dressing room.

T.C.A. HOLDS MANY UNREDEEMED PLEDGES

The T.C.A. still holds more than 1,000 pledges of unredeemed pledges, made during the annual dinner last fall. Letters have been sent to all who have not paid up as yet, asking that payment be made before tomorrow, when the new fiscal year begins. Payments should be made at the head office of the T.C.A., and checks will be accepted as well. It was stated that the T.C.A. will not accept any pledges that are not redeemed by the last day of the fiscal year, and that any pledges not redeemed by that date will be void.

T.C.A. HOLDING MANY UNREDEEMED PLEDGES

The T.C.A. still holds more than 1,000 pledges of unredeemed pledges, made during the annual dinner last fall. Letters have been sent to all who have not paid up as yet, asking that payment be made before tomorrow, when the new fiscal year begins. Payments should be made at the head office of the T.C.A., and checks will be accepted as well. It was stated that the T.C.A. will not accept any pledges that are not redeemed by the last day of the fiscal year, and that any pledges not redeemed by that date will be void.

T.C.A. HOLDING MANY UNREDEEMED PLEDGES

The T.C.A. still holds more than 1,000 pledges of unredeemed pledges, made during the annual dinner last fall. Letters have been sent to all who have not paid up as yet, asking that payment be made before tomorrow, when the new fiscal year begins. Payments should be made at the head office of the T.C.A., and checks will be accepted as well. It was stated that the T.C.A. will not accept any pledges that are not redeemed by the last day of the fiscal year, and that any pledges not redeemed by that date will be void.

T.C.A. HOLDING MANY UNREDEEMED PLEDGES

The T.C.A. still holds more than 1,000 pledges of unredeemed pledges, made during the annual dinner last fall. Letters have been sent to all who have not paid up as yet, asking that payment be made before tomorrow, when the new fiscal year begins. Payments should be made at the head office of the T.C.A., and checks will be accepted as well. It was stated that the T.C.A. will not accept any pledges that are not redeemed by the last day of the fiscal year, and that any pledges not redeemed by that date will be void.

T.C.A. HOLDING MANY UNREDEEMED PLEDGES

The T.C.A. still holds more than 1,000 pledges of unredeemed pledges, made during the annual dinner last fall. Letters have been sent to all who have not paid up as yet, asking that payment be made before tomorrow, when the new fiscal year begins. Payments should be made at the head office of the T.C.A., and checks will be accepted as well. It was stated that the T.C.A. will not accept any pledges that are not redeemed by the last day of the fiscal year, and that any pledges not redeemed by that date will be void.

T.C.A. HOLDING MANY UNREDEEMED PLEDGES

The T.C.A. still holds more than 1,000 pledges of unredeemed pledges, made during the annual dinner last fall. Letters have been sent to all who have not paid up as yet, asking that payment be made before tomorrow, when the new fiscal year begins. Payments should be made at the head office of the T.C.A., and checks will be accepted as well. It was stated that the T.C.A. will not accept any pledges that are not redeemed by the last day of the fiscal year, and that any pledges not redeemed by that date will be void.