CONQUER THE BLIGHT!

For the conscientious lads who just can't relax, these two documents are just a little too disheartening to the point of being futile. Not all of the serious-minded engineers are conscientious, however. There was a general consensus that the question of the white collar puncher was too real and too general.

Several of the professors realizing that there would be student attendance at their classes, called them off. With this minimal attendance the crew men hit the Institute. If the same conditions are in evidence next year the number of students and staff members will be thoroughly studied by the Faculty, and the general staff will be present at the scheduled time.

Advertising Department

J. L. Fisher, '35, Associate Mgr.

D. Gardner, '35 W. Shemmer, '35

W. E. Rudolph, '35 R. Schuetzenfeld, '35

THE TECH

ELECTIONS

At a meeting of the newly-elected faculty committee yesterday following were men nominated for chairman of the faculty committee:

George K. Creasy, '34 Charles H. Lucke, Jr., '35 Frankis H. Lodelf, '34. Election of the chairman will take place April 35.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TECH:

Mr. Bell's letter in the Open Forum of the Institute's Sunday issue is pertinent to a matter of real importance in the Institute, and demands a careful retention of both the student body and the instructing staff. The lack of further instruction in this letter is a reflection that it is a biting question in the student mind, and which is more to be considered a condition in a college on a scale with other evils.

Doubtless the suggestion that lack of contact exists will come as a surprise to most of us. The desirability of most friendly and liberal contact between students and staff members has been recognized by the Faculty, and it is the general belief of the student body, that there is indeed a lack of consultation as suggested, which has not been fully realized by any of us.

With this minor matter rectified, as well as the question of the white collar puncher, this year's student work will be harmonious with the best traditions of the Institute, and demands the careful study of both faculty and students. This year's student work will be harmonious with the best traditions of the Institute, and demands the careful study of both faculty and students.

The Faculty Committee recommended that the following changes be made:

1. Ten minutes be set aside for conference or office hours.

2. That the new men may not have been asked.

3. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.

4. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.

The Faculty Committee recommended that the following changes be made:

1. Ten minutes be set aside for conference or office hours.

2. That the new men may not have been asked.

3. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.

4. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.

CONQUER THE BLIGHT!

For the conscientious lads who just can't relax, these two documents are just a little too disheartening to the point of being futile. Not all of the serious-minded engineers are conscientious, however. There was a general consensus that the question of the white collar puncher was too real and too general.

Several of the professors realizing that there would be student attendance at their classes, called them off. With this minimal attendance the crew men hit the Institute. If the same conditions are in evidence next year the number of students and staff members will be thoroughly studied by the Faculty, and the general staff will be present at the scheduled time.

Advertising Department

J. L. Fisher, '35, Associate Mgr.

D. Gardner, '35 W. Shemmer, '35

W. E. Rudolph, '35 R. Schuetzenfeld, '35

THE TECH

ELECTIONS

At a meeting of the newly-elected faculty committee yesterday following were men nominated for chairman of the faculty committee:

George K. Creasy, '34 Charles H. Lucke, Jr., '35 Frankis H. Lodelf, '34. Election of the chairman will take place April 35.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TECH:

Mr. Bell's letter in the Open Forum of the Institute's Sunday issue is pertinent to a matter of real importance in the Institute, and demands a careful retention of both the student body and the instructing staff. The lack of further instruction in this letter is a reflection that it is a biting question in the student mind, and which is more to be considered a condition in a college on a scale with other evils.

Doubtless the suggestion that lack of contact exists will come as a surprise to most of us. The desirability of most friendly and liberal contact between students and staff members has been recognized by the Faculty, and it is the general belief of the student body, that there is indeed a lack of consultation as suggested, which has not been fully realized by any of us.

With this minor matter rectified, as well as the question of the white collar puncher, this year's student work will be harmonious with the best traditions of the Institute, and demands the careful study of both faculty and students. This year's student work will be harmonious with the best traditions of the Institute, and demands the careful study of both faculty and students.

The Faculty Committee recommended that the following changes be made:

1. Ten minutes be set aside for conference or office hours.

2. That the new men may not have been asked.

3. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.

4. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.

CONQUER THE BLIGHT!

For the conscientious lads who just can't relax, these two documents are just a little too disheartening to the point of being futile. Not all of the serious-minded engineers are conscientious, however. There was a general consensus that the question of the white collar puncher was too real and too general.

Several of the professors realizing that there would be student attendance at their classes, called them off. With this minimal attendance the crew men hit the Institute. If the same conditions are in evidence next year the number of students and staff members will be thoroughly studied by the Faculty, and the general staff will be present at the scheduled time.

Advertising Department

J. L. Fisher, '35, Associate Mgr.

D. Gardner, '35 W. Shemmer, '35

W. E. Rudolph, '35 R. Schuetzenfeld, '35

THE TECH

ELECTIONS

At a meeting of the newly-elected faculty committee yesterday following were men nominated for chairman of the faculty committee:

George K. Creasy, '34 Charles H. Lucke, Jr., '35 Frankis H. Lodelf, '34. Election of the chairman will take place April 35.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TECH:

Mr. Bell's letter in the Open Forum of the Institute's Sunday issue is pertinent to a matter of real importance in the Institute, and demands a careful retention of both the student body and the instructing staff. The lack of further instruction in this letter is a reflection that it is a biting question in the student mind, and which is more to be considered a condition in a college on a scale with other evils.

Doubtless the suggestion that lack of contact exists will come as a surprise to most of us. The desirability of most friendly and liberal contact between students and staff members has been recognized by the Faculty, and it is the general belief of the student body, that there is indeed a lack of consultation as suggested, which has not been fully realized by any of us.

With this minor matter rectified, as well as the question of the white collar puncher, this year's student work will be harmonious with the best traditions of the Institute, and demands the careful study of both faculty and students. This year's student work will be harmonious with the best traditions of the Institute, and demands the careful study of both faculty and students.

The Faculty Committee recommended that the following changes be made:

1. Ten minutes be set aside for conference or office hours.

2. That the new men may not have been asked.

3. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.

4. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.

CONQUER THE BLIGHT!

For the conscientious lads who just can't relax, these two documents are just a little too disheartening to the point of being futile. Not all of the serious-minded engineers are conscientious, however. There was a general consensus that the question of the white collar puncher was too real and too general.

Several of the professors realizing that there would be student attendance at their classes, called them off. With this minimal attendance the crew men hit the Institute. If the same conditions are in evidence next year the number of students and staff members will be thoroughly studied by the Faculty, and the general staff will be present at the scheduled time.

Advertising Department

J. L. Fisher, '35, Associate Mgr.

D. Gardner, '35 W. Shemmer, '35

W. E. Rudolph, '35 R. Schuetzenfeld, '35

THE TECH

ELECTIONS

At a meeting of the newly-elected faculty committee yesterday following were men nominated for chairman of the faculty committee:

George K. Creasy, '34 Charles H. Lucke, Jr., '35 Frankis H. Lodelf, '34. Election of the chairman will take place April 35.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TECH:

Mr. Bell's letter in the Open Forum of the Institute's Sunday issue is pertinent to a matter of real importance in the Institute, and demands a careful retention of both the student body and the instructing staff. The lack of further instruction in this letter is a reflection that it is a biting question in the student mind, and which is more to be considered a condition in a college on a scale with other evils.

Doubtless the suggestion that lack of contact exists will come as a surprise to most of us. The desirability of most friendly and liberal contact between students and staff members has been recognized by the Faculty, and it is the general belief of the student body, that there is indeed a lack of consultation as suggested, which has not been fully realized by any of us.

With this minor matter rectified, as well as the question of the white collar puncher, this year's student work will be harmonious with the best traditions of the Institute, and demands the careful study of both faculty and students. This year's student work will be harmonious with the best traditions of the Institute, and demands the careful study of both faculty and students.

The Faculty Committee recommended that the following changes be made:

1. Ten minutes be set aside for conference or office hours.

2. That the new men may not have been asked.

3. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.

4. That the white collar puncher be made a part of the regular curriculum.