In Defense of the "Grind"

PROROBLY no student, at Technology or elsewhere, is plagued by the grind more than the one who devotes all of his time to his studies, to the exclusion of athletics, service, and social life. This student is likely to, be "crank," or, more locally, a "brown-bagger," or a "grouch with genial BRIGGS." Its sa-

Albert, Roi des Belges

This death of Albert, King of the Belgians, was a sacrificial and universally beloved men of our time.

The simple democracy was the watchword of his life. Not the democracy of one who will give coin, but the democracy of one who holds a lion's heart with his hands and chest until his mountain climbing guides could climb at it. Guides is a word the proper word, for it was always Albert who led them.

When he and his queen went to London they lived quietly at a small hotel and shopped

This week in the Volleyball Championship of the New England Intercol leges basketball, the annual game is played.

In this game, the Athletic Council played against the Dramashop.

The Athletic Council, one of the most popular and beloved monarchs in Europe and he was the only thing he really enjoys is often in their activities, athletics and intramural sports. If a good team is vital to a college, why not...
