DR. VANDEVUR BUSH PRESIDES AT FORUM

Prominent Students Will Talk At Open Meeting Tuesday On Electioneering

Dr. Vanzevar Bush, Dean of Engineering and Vice-President of the Institute, will provide an open forum on student politics and elections to be held by the Technology Union under the auspices of the Debate Society Thursday evening, Nov. 27, at 7:45 in Room 6-120.

Walter R. Stockmayer, President of the Junior Class, will present the question, "Should the present rule of the Institute Committee against electioneering activities be changed?" To speak on the question the following have been chosen:

1. President of the Interfraternity Conference, Hal L. Biondi, S.M., Chairman of the Freeeman Estates Committee, Paul Cohen, S.M., Editor of Tech; and Otto E. Zwanzig, S.M., Committeeman.

Open Forum To All

Following the speeches, which will be limited to approximately thirty-five minutes, the meeting will be thrown open to general discussion from the floor.

Interest in the organization of "Technology Union" was renewed recently by Theodore Smith, instructor in English. In a letter to the Editor of The Tech Times, he in an address before the Institute Committee he explained the elementary purposes of such an organization and proposed that it be administered not unlike the Oxford and Cambridge Unions. In the words of Mr. Smith, "the forum should maintain a non-partisan spirit and "would give everyone a chance to be heard."

In this first meeting of the "Technology Union" a subject has been chosen, which, it is hoped, will attract a large audience. An effort is being made to have community present, in addition to debating and fraternity members.

APPROVAL GIVEN TO COL. R. C. EDDY

Colonel Robert C. Eddy, of the Division of Industrial Cooperation has received approval for his plans to develop use of concrete as a medium for the Massaching Highway Accident Survey, for which he was recently appointed.

Drasmaph Opens With Geo. Cohans Play "The Tavern" at Rogers Building

In Story Of a Yabooian, Cohann's Opening Act Was to Be What He Would Like to Be; Souder and Raftey Lead in Cast

"Stories of women are more apt to be true than the women they are told about," a line that Mr. Geo. H. Cohans "The Tavern," dramaphs fall production which was given at Rogers Common Room, expresses the philosophy of the play and Cohans as well as any other writer. It is the story of a thrilling evening in the life of a young man. It is about another of the "song and dance men" of the play and Cohans' conception of what he would like to be.

The setting is laid in the tavern of the dangerous and exciting life. It is a typical midnight and Cohans' dramatic vision of the world. In the tavern, there are two girls, both of whom have their own problems and ambitions. One is the wife of a husband, and the other is the wife of a young man, who is trying to support his family in the struggle for a better life. The play is a study of the effects of the tavern on the characters, and it is a dramatic portrayal of the personalities of the people who inhabit it.

The women's problems and ambitions are contrasted with the men's, who are busy with their own affairs. The play is a study of the effect of the tavern on the characters, and it is a dramatic portrayal of the personalities of the people who inhabit it. The women's problems and ambitions are contrasted with the men's, who are busy with their own affairs. The play is a study of the effect of the tavern on the characters, and it is a dramatic portrayal of the personalities of the people who inhabit it.