of the statement must rest entirely on the reliability of the student's information. In justice to the faculty, which came under a blatant indictment by the
THE TECH This past week, after a quiet recall, the editors of the* In Massachusetts, there are some students who are guilty of unfair pride, or gaining on an insufficiency of data, or on the other hand, the fact that a committee is instituted to ameliorate such conditions places the burden of proof not upon the between the faculty and the student body. The committee can do little, at best, but bring to the light of day any cause or concern of the latter group, and it is the duty of the committee to bear the brunt of the problems to the committee fully, and student-faculty relations, to do so. We believe that any student who makes available to the committee the information which may be useful in the case is, in order that the matter can be investigated.

DISTRIBUTION, CATASTROPHES IN EUROPE

The odds against war within the next year as offered by Lloyds, the famous British insurance company, have dropped from 25 to 1 to the present figure of 7 to 1. Germany openly rearmys. The attention of the world is directed toward the "European arms crisis" which France, Italy, Germany, and other nations are involving with their military machines. The press has been cited as having an alarming potency, one which must be watched. We will know that a jingoistic press has attended to alarm the public, and that the states have been given an opportunity to make change, and to initiate new policies, to ameliorate such conditions as exist, and to prevent similar states from occurring in the future.

The conception of "academic freedom," like many other concepts, is not so clear cut in meaning.
It has been given an uncorrected connotation by certain radical professors, but without it we can not expect that the student body will be free from censorship.

The distinctive feature of modern warfare is the bare facts, and it will involve not only the committees which have been set up, but also the armies, the nations, the states, and the institutions.

The situation of the nation is one of progress. The nations are moving toward the conclusion that they must be prepared to meet war and to fight it. The nations are moving toward
the conclusion that they must be prepared to meet war and to fight it.

OPEN FORUM (Continued)

In making its decisions in letters addressed to the Editor, THE TECH editorial board publishes its own opinions. It decides whether or not to print a letter and whether or not to publish it.

The committee is concerned with the question of academic freedom. They have bargained, not for the sake of bargaining, but for the sake of the students who are the immediate beneficiaries of the committee's efforts. They have
bargained, not for the sake of bargaining, but
for the sake of the students who are
the immediate beneficiaries of the committee's efforts.

The committee is concerned with the
question of academic freedom. They have
bargained, not for the sake of bargaining, but
for the sake of the students who are
the immediate beneficiaries of the
committee's efforts. They have
bargained, not for the sake of bargaining, but
for the sake of the students who are
the immediate beneficiaries of the committee's efforts.