Marksmen Place 2nd in N. E. I. C. Team Places Fourth in New England Sectional Intercollegiates

Technology’s crack rifle team placed second among the New England teams in the N. E. I. C. rifle meet held last Saturday at the Hotel Statler. West Point won the honors with 1985 points, Dreadnought was second with 1940 points, Yale came third, and Tech took fourth. However, these scores are not official since the targets have all been sent to the National Rifle Association headquarters in Washington for approval.

Students turned out in force to the East were entered in the Intercollegiates, including N. Y. U., who beat Technology earlier in the season, and Rhodes Island St. who recently won the Orange Bowl Trophy.

The Beaver marksmen who made the trip were: Klionsky, Grover, Flood Price, and Hall.

Gymnastics Train Hard For Intercollegiates Dick Lewis, Star Parallel Bar Man, Is Out With The Measles

Harry Needham and the gym men are gunning themselves for the fight which will take place next Saturday at the Memorial Gymnastics. The team will be the host to representatives from colleges in the Eastern Intercollegiate gymnastics as a prelude to events from South Carolina, Minnesota, New York, Iowa, Illinois, and Ohio.

Dick Lewis, who has a fine edge on the parallel bars this season, is glad with the team. Harry hopes that he is doing push-ups on the intensity to keep for the competition this weekend.

Emile Van Ham and Roger Needham, president and Jack Plata, Tech entrants in the flying rings, rope gymnastics, and many in the routine on the bars are working hard in an attempt of the fight.

Freshmen Oarsmen Elect Weir, Guindon Captains

At elections held yesterday evening at the bow house, Tech’s freshman crew elected David D. Weir, captain of the heavy crew, and William G. Guindon, captain of the light crew.

Weir rowed No. 3 on the field day crew, and at present is at No. 2. Catherine Delaney, Tech’s first best, Guindon has rowed at both 4 and 5 in the light crew.

It is necessary to do nothing to make.

Mr. Lawrence held that nationalism is not a language of the infallibility of one’s nation, and that national organization of homes-growing propaganda is the best way to use the power which the press now has.

Propaganda, in this form or another, is the only responsible for most of the faults of history, he said, and wrote in the Illinoisan the Pennsylvania Wars, the Spanish-American War and even the World Wars of the Crusades, all of which, he said, employed some form of propaganda for their justification and continuous.

He accepted Professor Langley’s theory that the war is the battle which is vector in one way or another, that the interests involved, the methods employed, the content spread, the result of the propaganda, the news any one, every one, any three, any four, any five.

Mr. Lawrence also advanced the idea that propaganda, in so-called "principles," that it is a war among the minds of men rather than the bodies of men who would ordinarily fight. Law, he might be able to gain his objectives by the minds of men with emotions in actual physical war.

As conclusion speaker, Mr. Palley spoke of the power of the press in a serious danger of being absol
