The annual Compton cup magazine which Harvard, Princeton, and Technol- ogy varsity teams will battle for the possession of the annual award, presented by Compton to the varsity team who will win the cup in a series of six races. The cup was first awarded in 1911 and has been contested annually since then. The cup was won by Harvard in 1911 and by Princeton in 1912, 1913, and 1914. The cup will be presented to the victorious team at a ceremony to be held at the end of the series of races.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The Princeton varsity team, which has won the cup in each of the last three years, is expected to meet a strong challenge from the Technology team, which has shown marked improvement in recent years. The race between the two teams is likely to be one of the most exciting of the season.