Johnson Gets Technique Cap

"Here you are?" said President Karl T. Compton, as he addressed the throng of over 600 freshmen at the All Technology Smoker held in Walker Memorial last night. As he welcomed the class of 1939, Compton indicated that in addition to the members of the Class of 1839, there were a good many of the freshmen's parents and a few old-timers.

The technology has been preparing for the Class of 1939, over a period of 70 years combined President, Compton, and now it is up to the entering class to make the most of their opportunity.

Balanced Training

Maintain the proper balance between the different aspects of education, the opportunity offered by activities and athletics, was urged by President Compton.

Your scholastic achievements at technology are most important, he said, and quoting Admiral Amos Walker, "You will learn more in the school that will prepare you for the proper well balanced training offered by the institute," he declared in closing.

First-Year Men Are Urged to Come Out and Support Athletics Here at Institute

By Sports Editor

To the first year and upper classmen who attended the most recent freshman camp, the contents of this column may be slightly out of season. However, the matter involved is of such great importance to them and to the other 2000 men who are called, that it is worth while for all of them to become more intimately acquainted with the unused facilities.

The problem is the question of athletics. It is a serious problem at that. In the past ten years Technology has gone from a mere shadow of a college, to the institution of today.

Although the freshmen rules will be strictly enforced, the Freshman Rules Committee of the National Student Association, is also under the administration of the Freshman Rules Committee.

Rules of the committee were announced by John G. Babish, Jr, '37, chairman of the committee, which has been twice renewed and published in the scientific field.

1. Any freshman in attendance at the Institute for his first year is eligible to join the freshman field team.

2. The idea must be presented by the head of the freshman Football Committee, accompanied by a neat, but not complicated, inked drawing, accompanied by a short paragraph not more than three hundred words.

3. The paper used must be 8½ by 11 inches.

4. Papers must be submitted on or before October 1st.
