Vol. 25, No. 40
CAMBRIDGE, MASS., FRIDAY, october 25, 1935
Price Three Cents

To the Editor of The Tech:

I have read with considerable interest the announcement concerning the decision of the Freshman Council and representatives of the Sophomore class to eliminate one aspect of the Field Day celebration. The decision of the Freshmen to hold only those sports that are considered by them as the true home of Track and Football is, of course, a matter for debate.

I have been very enthusiastic about the Field Day competition which I have witnessed, and believe that the preparation of this event is an excellent sport and enthusiasm. I am looking forward with ever greater anticipation and pleasure to the event this year, which has been taken by the freshmen and Sophomore leaders.

Very sincerely yours,

Karl T. Compton, President.

---

Field Day Teams Show Spirit in Daily Practices

Sophomore Tag Of War Team Is Surprised When They Break Posts

Fresh Surprise Sophomores in Night Scrimmage Tuesday

Fresh Tag-Of-War Team Scored By Reid; Sophs Have Most of Practice

For the past week, the teams for the Field Day sports have been after their usual outdoor practice. In most of the sport, the seniors have been centered around the track, football, and baseball fields. Both the Sophomore and the freshmen have been working hard, with some of the players working overtime to get their future practice. The freshmen have a very nice team, consisting of thirty-five to thirty-six players. However, the latter have the advantage of most of their spring training program going on, which is good fortune, to about eight good men. Last night the Sophomore played a game with the Harvard second team and came out victorious, while the Harvard team to six points.

The tag-of-war teams have been working all the week, and have had no way to test each other. Thus, this week's practice has shown plenty of spirit. On Tuesday, October 18th, the Sophomores played a game in two parts against which they were pulled, and considering it unusually hot on the track, they resisted being pulled against the wind. The freshmen have not been as much luck with their team, since many of those who signed up failed to appear or practice.

The team's team of the freshmen and the Sophomores have shown a great deal of energy in putting into practice the general principle that every game has made very good times in the week's practice. Of course, those freshmen who are interested in all phases of Field Day activities, the last week will be held on Monday in order that the last week can be spent in the football fields,慎重 as well as the winner, I will win the honor. The runners-up, as swell as the winner, will also be given to the students. The men who conduct lectures have taken advantage of the opportunity to gain favor by increasing the interest in their talks. There are, however, a few individuals who refuse to attempt to gain popularity at the expense of other departments for reputation and aloofness.

---

NEWS

Winner and Runners-Up To Be Discussed

By Lounger

Faculty Appraisal Shown As Quizzes Become Shorter

"Trick," Cries Rogers In Reported Illness Of Professor Greene

Will Wait Until Doomsday To Meet "Elongated Specimen" In Debate

"This is all a trick," shouted Professor R. Rogers last night in a part of a radio interview with The Tech when informed that the alleged illness of Professor William C. Greene would prevent a scheduled debate in the 5:15 Club Room next Tuesday.

"I am not at all surprised," he continued, "that Professor Greene has taken this as a means of evading a formal contest on his infeasible charge that chemists are "sorcerers."

Waves Wrought Professor Greene continued to waver with men in agreement, and Finally declared that he was beyond the reach of their words, so to speak.

To back up the claim that Professor Greene is actually ill, it has been reported that he was stricken with an illness of some one of the reported cases of appendicitis last Tuesday and was removed to the hospital on Tremont Street.

The major was certainly, the Tech "but he has not attended his scheduled classes this week." Eventually Professor Rogers covered himself to state that this illness was devout. He "reminded, 'if necessary I will wait with you until the spring term.'"

The Tech will conduct a faculty appraisal in the form of quizzes to determine the students' favorite professors and other students. The men who conduct lectures have taken advantage of the opportunity to gain favor by increasing the interest in their talks. There are, however, a few individuals who refuse to attempt to gain popularity at the expense of other departments for reputation and aloofness. Lecture, as well as the winner, will also be given to the students. The men who conduct lectures have taken advantage of the opportunity to gain favor by increasing the interest in their talks. There are, however, a few individuals who refuse to attempt to gain popularity at the expense of other departments for reputation and aloofness.

---

Coeds

---

Winning and Runner-Up To Be Discussed

By Lounger

Faculty Appraisal Shown As Quizzes Become Shorter

"Trick," Cries Rogers In Reported Illness Of Professor Greene

Will Wait Until Doomsday To Meet "Elongated Specimen" In Debate

"This is all a trick," shouted Professor R. Rogers last night in a part of a radio interview with The Tech when informed that the alleged illness of Professor William C. Greene would prevent a scheduled debate in the 5:15 Club Room next Tuesday.

"I am not at all surprised," he continued, "that Professor Greene has taken this as a means of evading a formal contest on his infeasible charge that chemists are "sorcerers."

Waves Wrought Professor Greene continued to waver with men in agreement, and Finally declared that he was beyond the reach of their words, so to speak.

To back up the claim that Professor Greene is actually ill, it has been reported that he was stricken with an illness of some one of the reported cases of appendicitis last Tuesday and was removed to the hospital on Tremont Street.

The major was certainly, the Tech "but he has not attended his scheduled classes this week." Eventually Professor Rogers covered himself to state that this illness was devout. He "reminded, 'if necessary I will wait with you until the spring term.'"

The Tech will conduct a faculty appraisal in the form of quizzes to determine the students' favorite professors and other students. The men who conduct lectures have taken advantage of the opportunity to gain favor by increasing the interest in their talks. There are, however, a few individuals who refuse to attempt to gain popularity at the expense of other departments for reputation and aloofness. Lecture, as well as the winner, will also be given to the students. The men who conduct lectures have taken advantage of the opportunity to gain favor by increasing the interest in their talks. There are, however, a few individuals who refuse to attempt to gain popularity at the expense of other departments for reputation and aloofness.

---

Coeds