STERILITY SUPREME

TEACHERS OATH BILL

So much talk has been occasioned by the refusal of local professors to take the recently passed Teacher's Oath Bill, that the real import of the bill may still be foggy for the average newspaper reader in accordance with the law the professor or instructor must sign the oath. Only signed communications will be considered. However, if the writer so desires, the initials will appear on publications.

Drown With Blas

To the Editor of The Tech

Dear Sir:

May I add to the criticism leveled against your ad "Virus of Our Pastimes"? The lack of responsibility for it has an antiquated, unseasonable conception of what constitutes survival of the fittest. It is not an example that modern medicine and hygiene as contributing to the degeneration of mankind. If only the fittest survived, then the majority of the people would be doomed! That every man is equal, no matter his height and physical strength admirably shows that the claims of "beast-man"..."are not to be suspected. "The modern medical profession has accomplished nothing except making a puzzle of the public. In its efforts to make martyrs of themselves to no good purpose.

In this case the bill is so innocuous, and the absurdity is so much emphasized that the mentality of those who would force this idea upon us is an interesting study of our tainted sentiment.

Steinmetz is a peculiar attitude has arisen in part of Dr. Rayman Smith, the Commonwealth of Edgewick and Supreme Court, that the bill is worthless because it is incomprehensible. It is not the intention of the professor who has just outlined not to make martyrs of themselves to no good purpose.

In this case the bill is so innocuous, and the absurdity is so much emphasized that the mentality of those who would force this idea upon us is an interesting study of our tainted sentiment.

I submit that the bill is worthless because it is incomprehensible. It is not the intention of the professor who has just outlined not to make martyrs of themselves to no good purpose.

In this case the bill is so innocuous, and the absurdity is so much emphasized that the mentality of those who would force this idea upon us is an interesting study of our tainted sentiment.