"Sports Comment" We are informed that the Tech pole vaulters recently obtained an aluminum vaulting pole for use in practices. This type of pole is light and much less apt to break than the conventional bantam kind. However, it remains to be seen how much the differences in springiness of the two materials will affect the performances of the vaulters.

At Providence, the Tech hoopers have their last opportunity to make four wins for the 1935-36 season.
