Institute To Express Opinion of New Deal In Poll By The Tech

Staff, Students To Vote In Balloting Held Next Thursday

Results of Balloting Sought To Show Political Trend Here

Polls To Be Open in Main Lobby Between 9:00 and 5:00 O’clock

In Technology anti- or pro-New Deal in the political philosophies of the students and faculty.

This important question is expected to be answered next Thursday, March 12, when The Tech will conduct a poll to determine the political sentiment of Technology students and staff members.

Voting booths in the Main Lobby will be kept open from 9 to 5, when it is expected that large numbers of under-graduates and graduates will be available to register their views and say on the question: "Do you favor the general policies and principles of the New Deal?"

The high present interest in the political questions is the result not only of the New Deal policies but also of the decision to hold a new poll on the question.

(Continued on Page 4)

Financial Aid To Cover Tuition Costs

The portrait of General Robert E. Lee, presented to the Institute by the Immediate Grand Daughters of the Confederacy, has been hung in the Faculty Reading Room

The decision to cover the full costs of the New Deal policies is the result not only of the New Deal policies but also of the decision to hold a new poll on the question.

(Continued on Page 4)

West Point, Ann Arbor, Sends Choosers To Technology For Study

Thirty-nine and sixteen West Point graduates are now taking courses at the Institute as part of their regular naval and military training.

They are stationed here on active duty and serving as well as they can be from their positions in the Naval Academy to serve as cadets in naval architecture. These cadets are chosen from the best qualified of those who have signed up to their special additional training. The officers take a special three-month course, covering the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors.

The West Point graduates take only three courses, and they come to the Institute as part of their regular naval and military training. They are stationed here on active duty and serving as well as they can be from their positions in the Naval Academy to serve as cadets in naval architecture. These cadets are chosen from the best qualified of those who have signed up to their special additional training. The officers take a special three-month course, covering the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors.

The West Point graduates take only a few courses, and they come to the Institute as part of their regular naval and military training. They are stationed here on active duty and serving as well as they can be from their positions in the Naval Academy to serve as cadets in naval architecture. These cadets are chosen from the best qualified of those who have signed up to their special additional training. The officers take a special three-month course, covering the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors.

The West Point graduates take only a few courses, and they come to the Institute as part of their regular naval and military training. They are stationed here on active duty and serving as well as they can be from their positions in the Naval Academy to serve as cadets in naval architecture. These cadets are chosen from the best qualified of those who have signed up to their special additional training. The officers take a special three-month course, covering the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors.

The West Point graduates take only a few courses, and they come to the Institute as part of their regular naval and military training. They are stationed here on active duty and serving as well as they can be from their positions in the Naval Academy to serve as cadets in naval architecture. These cadets are chosen from the best qualified of those who have signed up to their special additional training. The officers take a special three-month course, covering the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors and staying at the Institute as Juniors.