Poll (Continued from Page 1)

Where the votes were evenly divided, 4 to 4. Course X had the greatest number of votes, 97.

The first question on the ballot read as follows: "Do you favor the general policies of the New Deal?" Of the 687 votes cast, only 188 answered an unconditional "yes," while 499 went on record as disapproving the New Deal policies, 219 demanding a stricter interpretation of the Constitution and 94 calling for broader social powers for the federal government.

Many Revision Suggested

Among the varied revisions suggested by voters, the following found greatest unanimity of expression: reduction of taxes; increase of taxes on big corporations; practice of laissez-faire policy (no government control of industry); elimination of all vestiges of laissez-faire; more money for relief; less money for relief; economy, balanced budget, elimination of waste, etc.; adherence to 1932 campaign platform; constitutional revision and amendment; greater uniformity of state laws; elimination of class legislation, and less bureaucracy. One undergraduate demanded the establishment of a complete amnesty, while four voters called for a return to Republican administration.

Voting on the Teacher's Oath Bill was overwhelming in condemnation of the measure which has provoked much great controversy during the past six months. Ballots cast by the faculty on this question included 7 in favor of the bill and 96 against it, a slightly smaller ratio than expressed by the total of 687 approving and 146 disapproving votes cast.

Lucky Strikes are less acid

Excess of Acidity of Other Popular Brands Over Lucky Strike Cigarettes

The technical statement proving that Lucky Strike Cigarettes are less acid. The excess of acidity of other popular brands over Lucky Strike Cigarettes, in the order of their acidity, is shown in the chart above, where: LUCKY STRIKE, the only brand tested, is zero.

PROPER AGING

Tobacco in its natural state is harsh and strong. Though "cured" by the grower before sale, it is unsuited for use without further aging. During its aging period (which ranges in the case of Lucky Strike from 15 to 3 years) important changes occur. These "Nature" changes result in the partial "smoothening out" of the original harsh qualities of the leaf. Our process of manufacture carries these improvements many steps further— as every Lucky Strike Cigarette contains: A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.
