BLUFFING?

RUSSIAN THREAT

INTERNATIONAL politics and poise have one thing in common, the use of the time-honored bluff. Russia's action yesterday in threaten to aid the Madrid government un- provuces of the non-intervention pact cease immediately is another act in the game.

Of course, it is quite possible that Russia is not bluffing, but in that case the opposing power must be, as it says, "aware of the fact" and not soundly rather to bring up a war scare again, but war must result if no one is bluffing.

Russia insists that aid to the rebels must stop. It seems clear that Germany, Italy, and Japan, who have a common interest in having to aid the rebels, will not stop now that victory seems so near. Then if Russia is not bluffing she will openly aid the Spanish gov-

But Germany and Italy have already said that they will not tolerate intervention by any other power. Clearly, they intend to use armed force, unless, of course, they are bluffing.

The American government has been quotidian demands that it stop all military activities in Spain. It has not been of the same day and tabu-

The STRAW, STRAW, STRAW

THE TECH PRESIDENTIAL POLL

Our original plans for the carrying out of the Presidential poll have been in a measure upset by a last minute decision to set the date for the holding of the straw vote. We received a letter yesterday from the Daily Princetonian requesting us to join them along with a number of other eastern universities in setting some day and tabula-

Therefore there is insufficient time and space to present the authoritative views of all the political parties concerned in the situation. Instead of hoodwinking the students with a straw vote we have decided not to run any of these introductory articles on the different party issues.

Since the beginning of the poll, it is necessary that we seize upon this opportunity to present one im-

By profession, the scientist is the one who digs out the facts from nature, studies them with a microscope, and then makes conclusions from the facts. By profession, the philosopher we can't help but

The golden goose

THE CORPORATION

PRABLY no institution affects the life of the citizen as much today as the corporation. Since the development of 1958 it has taken such a hold on the business affairs of the nation that practically no phase of human activity is left untouched by it.

Since the corporation has such far-reaching influence it is only logical that people should undertake to make some inquiries as to how the influence is and who are the chief controlling individuals of management. The first question has been answered by an anonymous source that states that fifty billion dollars of the national wealth is in the hands of two hundred of these extensive enterprises.

The second question may never be com-

The first of the "Bright Sayings of Prof. Davis" was heard yesterday near the campus gate under the name of William E. "Dubs" Davis. The second of the series was also heard in Prof. Davis' popular science class.

Have you ever known a professor to be so high-sounding as he was yesterday? Prof. Davis' second "Bright Saying of the Day" was heard yesterday near the campus gate under the name of William E. "Dubs" Davis. The second of the series was also heard in Prof. Davis' popular science class.

The feminine part of the public is concerned in this type of reasoning. The feminine part of the public is concerned in this type of reasoning. The feminine part of the public is concerned in this type of reasoning. The feminine part of the public is concerned in this type of reasoning.